Picking the Wrong Horse
They Fooled Us? Certainly
We Need People
When Men Die

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN Nicaragua Uncle Sam seems to have bet on the wrong horse. Rear Admiral Latimer, commanding American forces in Nicaragua, where they have no business, reports the Diaz government, backed by this country, has been soundly thrashed by the so-called rebels.

Senator Borah, head of the committee on foreign affairs, proposes to find out why the United States meddles down there. Perhaps he will let the people know what he knows, and especially why pulls the spring that sends this country interfering in neighboring republics. Haven't we enough to attend to in the United States?

• • •

MUCH excitement over the discovery that this foolish government was bamboozled at the famous Washington conference and is inferior to England and Japan in sea power.

• • •

CONGRESSMAN BUTLER, head of the house committee on naval affairs, says we must build a new navy that will cost more than $400,000,000. Japan and England have been building powerful cruisers in great numbers.

"Uncle Sam," says Mr. Butler, "was fooled into scrapping more than $300,000,000 worth of the finest warships ever designed."

• • •

OF course we were fooled, and we shall continue to be fooled as long as we trust our affairs to politicians while nations of Europe employ statesmen.

• • •

FORTUNATELY, battleships and cruisers make little difference to a nation like ours that has no commercial fleet worth talking about, and therefore no need of battleship convoys.

What we need is flying machines to destroy enemy shipping, and that is what we HAVEN'T GOT.

• • •

Judge Gary, who recently handed his stockholders a $225,000,000 melon, is cheerful.

So is Henry Ford. He ought to be. If he stopped making cars entirely he would have an income of many millions a year from the manufacture of parts for years to come.

Mr. Ford says there has been overproduction in 1926, and worries about the difference between credit and debt.

He evidently thinks competitors have pushed credits beyond the limits of safety.

• • •

WHAT we need is people, about twenty millions of the energetic, ambitious, best people of Europe, eager to come here.

The twenty millions would absorb in 20 weeks the really good used cars and then begin buying new ones.

• • •

They would teach some Americans, who have forgotten it, the disagreeable, useful art of hard work. They would eat potatoes, wheat and other things that the farmers now produce in excess, and solve our problems.

• • •

GENTLEMEN of the farms, you need immigration, as a department store needs customers.

And when your congressmen vote to shut out immigration, they shut out those who would consume your products here at home.

• • •

WHEN men think about dying, their minds work in different ways. Some plan for fine monuments to cover their corpses.

Some plan to bribe divine justice, at the last moment seeking to spend money in a way that will keep them out of hell.

• • •

SOME think of others, of education, which is the only life of this earth, and leave their money to spread knowledge.

Others just fade out, thinking not at all.

• • •

ONE man, dead the other day, devoted a long paragraph of his will to his razor, one he had used for half a century.

Another recently left his stock in a race track gambling enterprise and his stock in an alcoholic distillery to clergymen that detested gambling and drink. The human mind, living or dying, is a strange contrivance.

• • •

GOVERNOR JACKSON announces plans for a monument and shrine to be erected at Lincoln City, Ind., in memory of Nancy Hanks, Lincoln's mother. It was about time for somebody to realize that a woman creating a great son is as worthy of honor as the man that paints a great picture or builds a great railroad system, and that everything a woman's son does is really done by her.

RAILROAD MAN DIES

Samuel T. M'Laughlin, 76; Succumbs at Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Dec. 30—Samuel T. McLaughlin, 76, vetran railroad man and prominent clubman, is dead here today following a short illness.

For 25 years before his death, McLaughlin was freight and traffic manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The veteran was well-known in business and Washington.

FATE OF AIMEE RESTING WITH GRAND JURORS

Conspiracy Charges Against Evangelist, Her Mother, Ormiston May Be Dropped

WITNESS "CONFESSES"

District Attorney Says He Has Evidence Woman Perjured Herself

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 30—Fate of the entire Aimee Semple McPherson case was to be determined by the Los Angeles County grand jury today.

Possibility was that before nightfall the conspiracy charges against the famous woman evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, and Kenneth G. Ormiston, one-time radio attendant of Mrs. McPherson's Angelus Temple, might be dismissed.

District Attorney Asa Keyes announced he had asked for the grand jury hearing in order to consider the latest "confession" made by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seiloff, perpetrator of the notorious "Miss X" Carmel hoax in connection with the McPherson case.

Perjury Proof, Claim

The district attorney declared that he had proof that Mrs. Wiseman perjured herself in the preliminary hearing of the McPherson case and that consequently her testimony would have to be withdrawn, leaving the case with no expectation of conviction.

"No prosecutor would feel justified in placing into jeopardy defendants accused by witnesses in whose testimony no credence can be placed," Keyes said.

In her new "confession," said to have been made yesterday, Mrs. Wiseman alleged that Roland Rich Woolley, Los Angeles attorney, and his "brother," Jack Woolley, had arranged with her to carry out the hoax. Attorney Woolley was formerly Mrs. McPherson's personal advisor.

Says Promised Money

The attorney, Mrs. Wiseman "confessed," directed her to "Jack Woolley," identified by her as the mysterious "Mr. Martin," who promised her "big money" if she would come forward with the Carmel story.

At the height of the investigation into Mrs. McPherson's disappearance, Mrs. Wiseman dropped out of a clear sky and told a sensational story to the effect that it had been her own sister, and not Mrs. McPherson, who had been the companion of Ormiston, the Angelus Temple radio attendant, in his "love cottage" in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

M'DERMOTT'S NEW TRIAL OVERRULED BY JUDGE

Convicted Slayer of Canton Publisher Soon To Be Sentenced

Canton, Dec. 30—Judge E. W. Diehl today overruled the motion of E. L. Mills for a new trial for Patrick Eugene McDermott, convicted of first degree murder in the death of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

Mills said he did not care to argue the motion.

Judge Diehl said he would sentence McDermott within a week or 10 days.

Prosecutor C. B. McClintock released Peggy Cavanaugh, Cleveland waitress, witness in the McDermot case, on her own recognizance.

Ben Rudner will probably be the next tried for the Mellett murder. The case has been tentatively set for Feb. 7.

MORE POISON RUM

One Man in Serious Condition and Nine Others Dazed

Youngstown, Dec. 30—One man is in a serious condition and nine others still are dazed here today as the result of drinking poisoned liquor last night.

Joseph Murphy, the most seriously effected, is in a hospital where doubt is expressed as to his recovery. His nine companions were arrested.

FIGHT OVER WOMAN

Youngstown, Dec. 30—C. W. Treats and Charles Paul are in a serious condition here today as the result of stab wounds said to have been inflicted during a fight over a woman last night.

COOLIDGE'S FACE SHOWS EFFECTS OF HEAVY BURDENS

1923 1924 1925 1926 (after vacation). End of 1926

Last Three Months Have Been Trying Ones for Chief Executive; Cares of Office Have Aged Him Beyond All Proportion

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—The President Coolidge viewing the dawn of 1927 is a decidedly older looking man than the President Coolidge who saw the year 1926 come in.

The last three months have been trying ones, politically, for the chief magistrate, and it is a matter of subdued comment amongst White House attendants and frequenters that either these worries or the cares of office have aged him out of all proportion to the period of time which has elapsed since his return from his Adirondack vacation early in the fall.

On his arrival in Washington from the mountains the president appeared in exceptionally good form. From his standpoint, however, the congressional campaign already was developing unsatisfactorily. The election, with the defeat of the administration's staunchest of all supporters—Senator Butler of Massachusetts—and its probable loss of control of the upper house in the next congress did not improve matters.

The president, of course, is literally growing older, too, and may have lost something of the recuperative powers which were so characteristic of him earlier in his term.

Face Betrays Weariness

At all events, he lacks much of his former alertness of manner. The peculiar ashen hue of his complexion is accentuated. His face has new and deeper lines and he wears a drawn expression, suggestive of weariness and mental strain.

That he is not unconscious of a change in himself is hinted at by his attitude toward the photographers who constantly swarm about the executive offices. From being snapshotted more frequently than any other individual in the United States, the president has learned to know exactly how to pose so as to be seen at his best. In this respect he is more particular today than ever before.

The White House post long has been known as a man-killer. For a long while President Coolidge showed no signs that he found it so, but at last those who see much of him are beginning to wonder if it finally is not threatening to "get" him.

LEGION TAKES FORWARD STEP IN HOME PLANS

Financing Plans Discussed at Father-Son Banquet; Entertainment Given

The movement to erect in Marion a permanent home for Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 162, American Legion took a step forward last night when nearly 100 members, fathers of members and business men of Marion heard financing plans discussed at a meeting at the Community Home. The affair was a "Father and Son" banquet, and many of the members brought their fathers as guests. Others, whose fathers could not be present, asked business men of the city to attend, as their guests.

A rabbit supper was served by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary. A program, arranged by Don Jones, chairman of the banquet committee, was given.

A Mouser Toastmaster

Judge Grant E. Mouser acted as toastmaster. Judge Mouser said that he got most of his war experience second hand, as he had not taken part in any of the wars of this country, but there was one thing he could not understand about the returned heroes of the late war and that was their extreme modesty. His recollections of battles of the Civil War, he said, was extremely vivid, as related by returned veterans of the struggle. When Major O. M. Baldinger took the floor a few minutes later he explained this angle of the war stories by saying that in his opinion most of the World War veterans were too scared to remember what took plane when they went into battle.

Presented Medal

Major Baldinger last night presented a past commander's medal to his comrade Major George T. Geran, who pre-

THIEVES TAKE JEWELS WORTH QUARTER MILLION

Loot British Department Store with Enough Gems To Open Shop

London, Dec. 30—Thieves early today carried out one of the biggest hauls in British criminal annals when they raided Harrod's Department Store, getting away with jewelry estimated to be worth a quarter of a million dollars.

Despite the fact that Harrods is in the heart of the city, being located in Knights Bridge, the thieves apparently were able to elude the watchmen and work all night collecting their loot.

Every showcase in the jewelry department of the huge store was ransacked and there are indications that the thieves left the store with their loot in a taxicab about 5 o'clock this morning.

Enough loot was taken from the store to furnish a well-stocked jewelry store. Thousands of articles were apparently carefully packed away by the thieves for transportation, including watches, gold and silved cigarette cases, brooches, rings and bracelets.

MOVING MACHINERY TO CITY FROM CLEVELAND

Gardner Tap & Die Co. To Start Operation in Local Plant About Jan. 15

Transfer of machinery and other equipment of the Gardner Tap & Die Co. from Cleveland to its new plant in this city is now in progress and operations here are expected to start about Jan. 15. This definite announcement was made today by John M. Gardner, president of the company, who is here for several days attending to final arrangements for the change in location.

The Lincoln-av plant of the defunct Studebaker-Wulff Rubber Co. which was purchased several months ago by the Gardner Co., has been the scene of remodeling and redecorating work for several weeks and is now practically ready for occupancy by the Gardner Co. All motors and other electrical equipment are in place and will be connected up with the machinery as it arrives.

One carload of machinery has reached the plant and another is en-route, Mr. Gardner stated today.

Employes of the company are making preparations for moving their families and household goods to Marion, a number having already rented dwellings. The company now has a force of about 60 employes.

WATCHING SUSPECT

Believe Kansas City Strangler-Slayer Hiding in Suburbs

Kansas City, M., Dec. 30—That the strangler-slayer who has taken a toll of three lives here this week is in hiding somewhere in the eastern suburbs of this city, is the tip on which police were working today.

Further strengthening of the theory that the fiend who took the lives of two women and an infant here by gaining access to homes pretending to search for a room is the same man who terrorized other cities, was brought out when witnesses told police of having seen a man answering the description of the slayer who strangled 11 persons to death in Pacific coast cities and one at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A police squad this morning was detailed to watch a stack in the "cast bottoms," from which several persons are said to have seen a man come and go the last several days.

HALTERMAN WANTS TO SHUN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Case of Self-Confessed Slayer of Half-Brother, Wife Opens Monday

Washington Courthouse, Dec. 30 — "Anything but the electric chair," will be the plea of Leo Halterman, self-confessed slayer of his half-brother, Charles Halterman, and the latter's wife, Carrie, authorities declared today as preparations were being made to open the case next Monday.

While threats against the young Blessing's Corner farmer are being heard less frequently at the neighboring villages of South Solon and Jeffersonville, Sheriff Ramsay is still keeping his ward's place of imprisonment an official secret, although it is rumored the prisoner was spirited into the Pickaway County jail at Circleville.

Fayette County Prosecutor - elect Stanley Paxson today announced that his first official act Monday would be to open a grand jury investigation of the crime. First degree murder indictments will be asked, he said.

GOODYEAR COURT ACTION POSTPONED BY JURIST

Toledo, Dec. 30—A postponement in the stock control action involving common shares of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., until Jan. 12, has been announced by Federal Judge John M. Killits.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Katherine G. Benedict, of New York, against F. A. Seiberling and a group of his associates, who she alleges have formed a common stock voting trust for fraudulent purposes. A temporary restraining order, depriving the defendants of exercising powers they are said to have wielded heretofore in the stock, has been extended to Jan. 12, when arguments will be heard on a motion to make the injunction permanent.

ADMINISTRATION ALTERS NICARAGUAN ATTITUDE

Coolidge Apparently Disturbed by Sharp Criticism of Whole Policy

Washington, Dec. 30 — President Coolidge is becoming disturbed over the increasing criticism of the administration's policy in Nicaragua and Central America in general, according to indications today.

With senatorial critics threatening a widespread investigation, with Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, charging that the Nicaraguan "mess" was stirred up by "eight or ten men not Nicaraguans at all," and with the press of Europe and South America making caustic comment about "American imperialism," there appeared today a softening of the State Department's hitherto militant attitude toward the whole situation.

When Adolfo Diaz was recognized as the legal president of Nicaragua six weeks ago, the State Department let it be known that he had the "full support" of this government in restoring order, and suppressing the revolution then impending.

Since that time, the liberal revolutionists supporting Dr. Juan Sacasa, who claims the constitutional presidency, have decisively whipped the Diaz forces in every engagement, and some Latin American observers here believe Sacasa is headed for complete victory.

The position taken by the State Department, as announced officially now is that President Diaz must fight his own battles without the American government "taking sides." It is a marked recession from that position taken six weeks ago when Diaz was to be accorded "full support."

BANKER DROPS DEAD

Wealthy Memphis Man's Death Attributed to Worry Over Failure

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 30—Harry Cohn, wealthy president of the American Savings Bank & Trust Co., dropped dead in his office here today.

Worry over failure of the bank was believed responsible.

The bank closed its doors several weeks ago after a bookkeeper had disappeared and a cashier had killed himself, when a shortage of $400,000 was revealed by bank examiners.

GIRL DIES FROM WOUNDS OF BOY'S CHRISTMAS GUN

Brookville, Dec. 30—A Christmas tragedy was recorded here today when arrangements were made for the funeral of Thelma Hay, 13, daughter of Scott Hay, prominent hardware dealer.

Mr. Hay gave his son, Virgil, 15, a rifle for Christmas. While examining it, Christmas Day, it was discharged, the bullet striking Thelma in the abdomen. The young girl grew worse in a hospital in Dayton Wednesday and it was thought she would die soon, but to recovery. She suffered tremendous pain and died Wednesday night.

COUNTY TAKES LEGAL STEPS TO COLLECT TAXES

Commissioners Authorize Treasurer To Hire Collector After Public List Reading

$50,000 OUTSTANDING

Nearly 4,000 Names and Amounts Involved; All of 44 Districts Affected

With the formality of reading in public the list of delinquent personal tax payers out of the way, the County Commissioners yesterday proceeded to the first practical move in bringing in as much of the outstanding $50,000 or more due the county, and authorized County Treasurer James E. Messenger to employ a collector and take all legal steps to collect this money.

All afternoon Wednesday the County Commissioners sat through the formal reading of the delinquent tax list. The reading started at 1 o'clock and was not over until 4:30 p. m. The group of about 25 persons who came to hear the start of the reading gradually dwindled until at 3 o'clock there was no audience at all. The three commissioners, Clerk T. A. O'Leary and Treasurer Messenger were the only ones in the office when the reading of the last name took place. The task was a monotonous one, involving as it did nearly 4,000 names and amounts these persons owe. O'Leary and Messenger read the list from the delinquent tax record book. Every one of the 44 taxing districts in Marion County was covered and the name of every person who owes the county a cent for personal tax was read.

Pass Resolution

The reading of this list was only a preliminary to what is to follow in the personal tax collection line. Immediately after the close of the reading the commissioners passed a resolution authorizing Treasurer Messenger to enter into a contract with a firm of collectors with full authority to take any and all legal steps to collect the outstanding personal tax.

The last resort of collecting this tax is to enter suit and this will probably be done by the collector if notices and personal calls fail to induce the delinquent payer to settle the bill.

The rush to get under the wire to pay delinquent personal taxes continued all day yesterday. While the reading of the list was going on five persons came into the office of the treasurer and paid delinquent personal taxes. These names were taken over to the commissioners' office by Deputy Sheldon and the names stricken off the list right away.

Great Range

The largest amount outstanding is $1,695, and the lowest amount is 10 cents. There were smaller amounts read but they were penalties of a few cents, and errors in tax bills, which have been placed on the books and will be added to future tax bills. The oldest delinquent personal tax due is 19 years old now, having come due in 1907, and being carried along from year to year, with an effort made each year to collect, without result.

Much history could be dug from the delinquent personal tax list. The list includes the names of persons who have died recently, and more than one promising company which flourished some years ago and then passed out, leaving behind it unpaid personal tax. There are many cases of personal tax listed against the names of executors and administrators of estates.

Collection Plan

The plan of hiring an experienced firm of collectors, who will send a thoroughly competent collector here to be long followed here as in most counties where personal tax is to be collected. This plan gives the treasurer the opportunity to enter into a contract with the firm, which binds the collectors to go through the entire list, and take every person on it. Employment of hit and miss collectors generally ends with the collection of the larger sums, and the small sums still on the books, officials say.

The majority of the delinquent tax payers owe sums below $20. By signing a contract the collection firm is bound to get the small ones as well as the large ones, it is pointed out. Another angle of the plan, county treasury officers say, is that the collecting firm have facilities for doing more than their own attorneys. Individual collectors generally strike a snag in their suits, it has been found, as the judgments rarely can be paid by the collectors. The inexperienced collectors on the basis of collecting in toto in the vicinity of the sums. The collection firm gets a percentage basis agreed to by it and the County Commissioners.

NEW YEAR TO BE OBSERVED WITH MANY PARTIES

Theaters and Churches Plan Celebrations To Be Held Friday Night

When Kid 1927 cheers Old Man 1926 off the scene at midnight Friday he will find a lot of Marionites in groups of two to several hundred all ready to give him the glad hand and start him merrily on his way.

Seeing the old year out will be a popular pastime in the city this year, from all indications. There will be more doing in the way of general frivolity than at any time since the country went officially dry, it appeared today, as the news of parties drifted in.

There will be parties here, aft and ashore on the good craft Marion to greet the New Year. Some of the celebrators will very likely roll like sailors ashore before the night is over, still some may be kind of hazy as to whether the new year came in or went out, but this, of course, is strictly unofficial.

Resolutions and corks will pop, there will be blatant toots, clanging bells and gleeful frolics. Watch parties in churches and homes will be part of the big celebration.

Midnight Shows

Midnight shows have been arranged by the Grand and Marion Theaters, a dance has been scheduled at The Star Auditorium, and private parties have arranged for special celebrations following dance and shows. Clubs will have special programs to see the clock hands slip over the hour and the members will hail the new year in the club quarters with fitting celebrations.

Several Marion ministers have announced "night watches" or special New Year services in their churches. New Year's Eve.

A service which will begin at 9 o'clock at the Prospect Street M. E. Church will extend through the hour of midnight. A special program has been arranged which will include sermons by Rev. Edwin Weise of the Marion Circuit M. E. Church and by the pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. Church, Rev. A. F. Uphoff. "Family Religion" will be the subject of Rev. Uphoff's

WOMAN NEAR DEATH

Suffering From Effects of Strong Poison Taken at Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Dec. 30—Mrs. Doris Mitchell, 30, Columbus, Ohio, was expected to die in a hospital here today following what police declared was a suicidal attempt late yesterday.

The woman, who was suffering from effects of a strong poison, told hospital attendants that her father died recently and that she was on her way to join her mother who is seriously ill in Jacksonville, Fla. Letters found in her purse by police indicated that the woman's husband is missing.

YOUTH IS SHOT

Fist Fight and Wrestling Follows Argument Over Shot

Mansfield, Dec. 30—County authorities are today investigating the shooting which occurred near Butlerville, 10 miles south of here, yesterday afternoon, when Bryan Gerber, 16, was shot by Gordon Hively, 18, in the result of an argument and fist fight over a steel.

Young Gerber was brought to Mansfield Hospital and underwent a major operation last night. His condition today was reported as critical.

FALL-SINCLAIR CASE TO MOVE ALONG SLOWLY

Will Take Much More Time Than Recent Fall-Doheny Trial

HARRY F. SINCLAIR

For so big a case, the Fall-Doheny case moved swiftly.

The jury was secured rapidly, considering the importance of the interests at stake. The opening arguments, the examination and cross-examination of witnesses, the lawyers' summing up, the judge's charge and the jurors' deliberations occupied a matter of but about three weeks.

All authorities agree that this was jig time for a legal fight involving a vindication or the penitentiary for a former member of the senate and cabinet and a capitalist who counts his millions in hundreds.

Nobody thinks the Fall-Sinclair proceedings will progress so fast.

• • •

Fall and Doheny were "desert rats" together, "pardners" of the long ago, friends of nearly a lifetime's standing. When Doheny, to whom $100,000 was only a trifle, asserted that he made such a loan to Fall simply to help an old "side kick" out in a financial pinch, his statement had the ring of probability, or at least of possibility.

The prosecution intends to introduce evidence, however, of a $230,000 Liberty Bond transaction between Sinclair and Fall.

• • •

Odd as it may seem, it's the consensus in Washington that the Teapot Dome case, by reason of the peculiar name—"Teapot Dome"—which is associated with the Fall-Sinclair prosecution, stirred up a great deal more public interest than the Elk Hills' oil lease, which figured in the Fall-Doheny trial. Even during the senate investigation it was suggested that the country probably would have paid very little attention to a transfer of Naval Oil Reserve No. So-and-so, whereas a Teapot Dome transfer instantly caught the eye and ear, it looked and sounded so unusual.

Elk Hills is better than Naval Reserve No. So-and-so, but Teapot Dome is still more so.

• • •

The Fall-Doheny trial has given rise to a great deal of recent talk about "oil-scandals."

Senator Heflin's emphatic remarks in the upper house of congress concerning the Fall-Doheny verdict have caused yet more of it. For what he said on the senate floor Heflin can't be called to account and he was unsparing in his denunciation of everything connected with the trial—prosecution and defense, witnesses, judge and jury.

The oil cases were a somewhat somnolent issue when Fall and Doheny were put on trial. They'll be an exceedingly wakeful one at the trial of Fall and Sinclair.

• • •

Doheny, in court, was a picturesque old prospector, with a kindly side to him—at any rate, as it was easily possible to present him. Sinclair is the hard, shrewd business man, and it will be difficult to present him otherwise. How Fall appears seems likely to depend on the co-defendant he stands up with.

DRY NEW YEAR EVE PLANNED BY ENFORCERS

Federal Director Sees Strict Observance of Liquor Laws This Year

Columbus, Dec. 30—Festivities in Ohio on New Year eve will be "dry", regardless of weather conditions, if plans of federal and state prohibition enforcement officials in the Buckeye State are consummated.

Federal Prohibition Director W. H. Walker and State Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald today were perfecting plans for strict observance of dry laws in this state on New Year eve—so far as it is possible for their respective field forces to bring such a situation about.

Both Director Walker and Commissioner McDonald announced that they will not issue any special instructions or orders, dealing with law enforcement New Year eve. They asserted, however, that all possible effort will be made to prevent violations of dry laws that night. Their inspectors, they said, will be assigned to duty New Year eve at points where, it is believed, they can perform the best service.

Special attention will be given, it was announced, to places where celebrations last New Year were responsible for complaints alleging drunkenness and other unlawful conduct.

Law enforcement officers frankly admitted that their limited field forces prevent them from adequately coping with the situation. Director Walker has about 75 men in the field and Commissioner McDonald, 30. In some instances, it was pointed out, it will be up to the police and other local law enforcement officials to see that the "dry" lid is kept clamped on tight New Year's eve.

TOLEDOAN IS ELECTED OHIO TEACHERS' HEAD

Meek's Address and Reports To Feature Closing Session Today

Columbus, Dec. 30—An address by Supt. Charles S. Meek, Toledo public schools, newly-elected president of the Ohio Teachers Association, and presentation of reports by the educational council comprised the program at the closing session here today of the association's three-day mid-winter meeting.

President Meek succeeds Supt. J. A. McDowell, Ashland public schools.

Officers chosen include: George E. Waltman, Cleveland, president of the attendance officers group; W. A. Kline, Westerville, president high school group; A. E. Gower, Plain City, president village school superintendents group; C. D. Steiner, Pandora, president Ohio Society for vocational guidance group.

Addressing the general assembly of teachers, Sir John Adams, University of London, England, reviewed teaching conditions in France, England and Germany and contrasted the English and American educational systems.

Warren A. Roe, principal of Belmont all-year school, Newark, N. J., addressing the elementary principals group, urged establishmet of school principalship as a profession with professional requirements as to training and equipment for such work.

COMPANY APPEALS FROM $2,452,628 JUDGMENT

Result of Lengthy Litigation Between Railroad and Telegraph Concerns

Cincinnati, Dec. 30—An appeal from the decree of the federal district court at Lexington, Ky., in which a judgment of $2,452,628.18 was awarded the Louisville & Nashville Railroad against the Western Union Telegraph Co., was on file in the United States circuit court of appeals here today.

The appeal, which is the latest development in lengthy litigation between the two companies in courts of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Ohio, was filed by the telegraph concern.

Following the termination in 1911 by the Western Union of a contract with the railroad for a right-of-way along the latter's lines, the railroad company instigated a suit against the telegraph company for rental of the use of the right-of-way, according to the records.

New York's Holiday Drinking Victims List Reaches 34

TOTAL FIGURES FOR 51 WEEKS ARE ASTOUNDING

Eight Deaths Contained in Today's Casualty List; New Year's Next

New York, Dec. 30—Eight additional deaths attributed to poison liquor today brought New York's total from holiday drinking up to 34.

With this record casualty list for the metropolitan district came figures from many parts of the nation showing an astounding number of deaths from poison alcohol for the first 51 weeks of the year.

The staggering total for the country in reports available up to today is 2,897.

Admittedly the figure is much larger as an exact total of the casualties can not be obtained, it was said.

Denounce Government Policy

With this rise in liquor deaths, there was considerable condemnation by educators and labor leaders of the government policy of denaturing industrial alcohol which finds its way into the hands of bootleggers.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, denounced the government's policy in denaturing liquor. He said:

"Murder—just plain, unadulterated murder by our glorious paternal government, is what I think of the deaths attributed to consumption of liquor manufactured from poisoned alcohol.

"Let it go. Why stop it? The more victims of governmental murder, the better the government, I suppose. To go government which has undertaken to do what already has been done in this tragedy of prohibition, a few more murders means nothing."

1926 Statistics

Best available statistics on the 1926 deaths follows: 747 in New York City, including holiday toll, 808 in other parts of New York state, 1,342 for other parts of the country heard from up to today.

Medical examiner Charles D. Norris, in announcing the eight additional deaths predicted that the total would be augmented during the New Year's eve drinking. Hospitals, accordingly, are making the necessary provisions to care for alcoholic patients.

Many Sufferers

Bellevue Hospital, Kings County Hospital and many private institutions are crowded with sufferers from alcoholism, the number of whom it is almost impossible to estimate. Officials reported that 110 alcoholic cases were received in Bellevue since Christmas eve.

Orville S. Poland, chief of the legal department of the New York Anti-Saloon League, suggested families of poison liquor victims should sue the sellers of the liquor for damages and offered the aid of the league's attorneys in any such actions.

"The people of New York are properly horrified and grieved at the reports of so many victims of holiday hootch," said Poland.

TO TAKE POISON OUT OF ALCOHOL

Washington, Dec. 30—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced officially today that the government plans to take all poison out of industrial alcohol.

New formulae already have been prepared for denaturing which render industrial alcohol sickening for humans, but not deadly, Mellon said. To a certain extent, these formulae have been put into actual use.

Mellon feels that the government should not attempt to enforce the prohibition law by the use of poison such as wood alcohol. He explained that the present situation is being remedied as rapidly as possible.

Working on Enforcement

Instructions have been given to treasury chemists to continue the investigation into all denaturing processes with a view to removal of the virulent poisons from the industrial alcohol.

Referring to the general phases of prohibition, Mellon declared that it is unreasonable even to expect complete enforcement. It would be like anticipating that enforcement of any law would be complete. The secretary feels that it is a question as to what extent the law can be enforced.

According to the secretary, the treasury is endeavoring to bring about the most complete enforcement possible.

NO MAIL DELIVERIES HERE NEW YEAR'S DAY

All Departments in Local Postoffice To Be Closed on Saturday

It was announced today that the local postoffice will be closed all day Saturday, New Year's day. Only sufficient help to handle special delivery matter and incoming mail will be required to work. No deliveries by carrier or by truck will be made.

Effective Feb. 1, 1927, a flat rate of 10 cents per half ounce for air mail will be charged. This does away with the existing practice of zoning air mail matter over the transcontinental and overnight routes, and also the different rates applying to contract air mail routes.

HOLD SERVICES TODAY FOR HENRY C. ANDERSON

Funeral services for Henry C. Anderson, Civil War Veteran, who died Tuesday at his home north of the city were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the C. E. Curtis & Co. Undertaking Parlors in charge of Rev. E. L. Hollday, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church. Burial was made in Marion Cemetery.

The Japanese have forbidden the ancient Korean custom of carving a design on the neck of a girl who has short hair.

FATHER, SON TAKE MOTH ER, DAUGHTER AS BRIDES

Standing, left, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Andrew; right, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd R. Andrew. Seated, the Rev. Dr. D. J. Evans, who performed the double ceremony

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 30—Dan Cupid has made the holidays merry in at least two homes here. As a result of his efforts, father and son now are husbands of mother and daughter.

The story-book climax to the father-son, mother-daughter romance ended in a rush when the son announced in the midst of a holiday celebration that he would be married in a few hours.

Father Surprised

The son is Floyd R. Andrew, 20, and the girl-bride was Miss Maxine Davis, 18.

Floyd's announcement stunned his father, Wilbur E. Adrew, 51.

He sought a hurried conference with the mother of his son's bride, Mrs. E. H. Baker.

He proposed. She assented and forthwith they rushed to the home of the county recorder for a marriage license.

Later father and son took mother and daughter to a nearby church, where the Rev. Dr. D. J. Evans performed a double wedding ceremony.

GIFT PACKAGES LOST DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Holiday Has No Cheer for Two Marion Children; Red Cross Helping

Christmas Day was just like any other Saturday to two little youngsters, a boy and girl, living at 303 E. Farming-st, who seemed to have been entirely forgotten by the patron saint of all good boys and girls. And it wasn't because they weren't good, either. The real reason was that their mother, Mrs. Ethel Sites, lost the Christmas gifts, a boy's suit and a pair of bloomers for the girl. The gifts were purchased by Mrs. Sites late the day before Christmas and were lost before she got home. Information regarding the articles may be phoned to the Red Cross Office where Mrs. Sites applied for help in finding them.

UNCLE OF MARION MEN DIES AT WIFE'S FUNERAL

Relative of A. W. Kette Stricken by Heart Attack at New Matamoris, O.

Towards the close of funeral services Tuesday for his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Kette, William Kette, of New Matamoris, O., uncle of A. W. and Frank Kette and Mrs. Willa Cassidy, all of 331 Hane-av, this city, dropped dead from heart attack. He had been ill preceding the service but had recovered sufficiently to permit his attending.

Services for Mrs. Kette were completed and followed by burial in the new Matamoris Cemetery in the same plot where Mr. Kette will be buried. The two are known in Marion as they have visited here every summer for many years. Marion relatives were in attendance at the funeral when Mr. Kette's tragic death occurred.

One daughter, Miss Marion Kette, at home, survives. Parents of both Mr. and Mrs. Kette preceded them in death.

Mrs. Kette died Sunday during an operation for cancer in the hospital at New Matamoris. She had been ill only a short time.

MANY DOG OWNERS IN COUNTY BUY LICENSES

Rush for Tags Starts as Period for Issuing Permits Draws to Close

Money rolled into the office of the county auditor yesterday as the last day for buying dog tags approached. Tags worth $172 were purchased yesterday. Today will be another big day in dog license sales, and tomorrow will mark the peak of the sale, it is expected.

County Commissioners and Sheriff James Deal will set a dead line on the purchase of tags within the next week, and after the deadline goes into effect the price of dog tags goes up, besides the addition of a penalty of fine and cost for dogs found without licenses.

Marriage License

Curtis L. Folwell, 19, Plain City, salesman, and Gertrude E. Mercer, 17, Morral.

Friendly Suit

A friendly suit to set aside the will of the late Harry C. Barnhart and divide the property left by him under an order of Common Pleas Court has been filed by Henry F. Barnhart and others against Rose Ella Barnhart and others.

The estate has been appraised at $120,701 and includes various items of personal property. The suit was brought because a technical error prevented settlement.

Twenty-two thousand Nebraska club women, headed by the State Federation of Women's Clubs, have inaugurated a state-wide movement to improve living conditions in Nebraska homes.

talk, which he terms an "illustrated lecture." The congregation will sing especially arranged hymns during the presentation of slides illustrating each line of each hymn. Several selections will be played on the "musical saw" by Elmer Bondley. Refreshments will be served during a social hour.

Oakland Services

Services at the Oakland Evangelical Church will begin at 8 o'clock and extend through midnight. Presentation of the program will be divided between four church organizations; the orchestra, the Senior Christian Endeavor League, the Adult League, and the Women's Missionary Society. Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor, will give a short talk after which the meeting will close with a consecration service and prayer.

A service at 7:30 o'clock at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church will be followed by a watch party for members of the Young People's Missionary Society at the home of Curtis Landner, Blaine-av. A program in keeping with the New Year will be presented at the church, including a sermon by Rev. J. W. Schillinger, pastor, on the subject, "The Lord Our Dwelling Place in All Generations."

HERE'S MORE ABOUT
NEW LEGION HOME
STARTS ON PAGE [illegible]

ceded Commander Sandrock as head of the local post. Geran responded briefly and thanked the members of the post for their thoughtfulness.

The need for a Legion home was taken up by R. F. Fletcher, and some of the activities which a Legion Post may take up to be of service to the community were discussed by him. The first step, he said, in starting a program of service to the community was to have a central point for such activities, and a Legion home was the best place, in which to center the post work.

Three Speakers

Three speakers touched on a proposed plan of financing the home which the Legion hopes to build here. E. M. Pavey, of Dayton, told of a plan which is being worked successfully in his home city, and he was followed by Charles E. Merkel, of the Marion Savings Bank, who promised the support of that institution in working out the financing plan which is now under consideration. Ben T. Wiant, Legion member talked of the financing plan and explained the "$4,600" building fund once talked about. Wiant said that part of this fund was pledged, part was held in trust to be used for only a permanent building fund, and that the rest consisted at one time of surplus funds, which had been largely used up since.

A. A. Craven, Asa Queen and Oscar Gast staged the entertainment part of the program. Queen and Gast, the former leading and the latter at the piano, took the group present through a series of songs, war and otherwise. Craven is a ventriloquist, and he gave the dummies "Mike" and "Sambo" a workout for the occasion.

Fred Warner, Republican State Central Committee chairman, was called on for a "Will Rogers" stunt. He gave it, without the aid of lasso or chewing gum, by telling how he decided to become a lawyer, and hooking up some local incidents with stories as he went along.

JULES V. BARND NAMED DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVE

Jules V. Barnd, 208 Hane-av, has been appointed representative for the Cities Service Co., New York City, to handle the company's public utility securities in this district, including Marion and surrounding counties. The company which Mr. Barnd will represent owns the Ohio Public Service Co., and the Toledo Edison Co., two Ohio corporations.

Chester L. Lane, district representative for the company, with offices in Toledo, is in Marion today conferring with Mr. Barnd relative to his new work.

GIRL COASTER KILLED

Youngstown, Dec. 30—Thomas Sears, truck driver, today was held blameless for the death here late yesterday of Francis Stillson, 6, who was killed when his sled collided with the truck.

GROCER FALLS VICTIM OF 'DIAMOND' SALESMAN

Now Possesses 15 Brass Checks Procured in $5,000 Investment

Dayton, Dec. 30—Jacob E. Levine, grocer, has 15 brass checks which today represent an investment of $5,000.

It happened this way: Three weeks ago, a man—No. 1—entered the store. He wanted to buy it. He visited the place daily to see how business was going.

No. 2 entered. He wanted to sell some diamonds, explaining he had just returned from Mexico. No. 1 said he didn't want to buy, but had a friend in Springfield who might invest. There was a telephone call. The next day No. 3 appeared and was shown the diamonds, bought three for $1,000 in the presence of Levine. No. 1 then offered to buy all the diamonds No. 2 had left but had no ready cash. He asked Levine to loan him $5,000 and keep the diamonds until he could go to Cincinnati and get his money. Levine withdrew his $5,000 from the bank gave it to No. 1 and accepted the box of diamonds. No. 1 went to Cincinnati or someplace else, and, according to reports to police, is still going.

Levine is sick in bed.

LAST-MINUTE RUSH FOR AUTO TAGS INCREASING

Steady Stream of Motorists Pours Into Quarters of Marion Auo Club

The last-minute rush of applicants for 1927 automobile licenses, which began early this week at the office of the Marion Auto Club, is increasing as the closing day of the old year draws near and thousands of motorists face the prospect of being forced to leave their cars in storage because of failure to obtain their 1927 credentials.

Today a steady stream of auto owners filed through the auto club office, many being forced to wait more than an hour for their licenses as a penalty for having failed to heed repeated warnings to "get in early." At times during the day, not only the club office, but the hotel lobby outside was jammed with the throng.

Although Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the club, has a large corps of special clerks to assist in the license sale, it will be impossible to distribute all licenses before Jan. 1, she stated today. The sale is expected to continue during most of the first week of the new year.

In the meantime, Chief of Police Thompson states that no arrangements have been made to permit motorists to use their 1926 licenses after Jan. 1.

ONE CONVERT

"Power of Word of God" Revival Sermon Subject Tonight

"The Call to Soul Winning" was the sermon subject chosen by Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, at the revival services last night at his church. He based his theme on the scripture verses from Daniel 12:3 and Luke 10:17. One conversion followed the sermon.

Members of the choir, under the direction of S. F. Porter, of Mossy Bible Institute, Chicago, sang, "Sail On." A fair-sized audience attended the service. Rev. Mr. Holliday pointed out the calls for soul winning as coming from Heaven, hell and the Word of God. His subject tonight will be "The Power of the Word of God."

HOLINESS ASSOCIATION MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

Members of the Marion County Holiness Association will hold their regular annual business meeting at the Pilgrim Holiness Church, York and Waterloo-sts, at 7:30 o'clock Friday night. Three officers will be elected and a watch service enjoyed. Three speakers have been engaged for the service, one the report submitted by the pastor of the church and vice president of the organization, C. M. Brown, today.

PROBE OF GAME LOOMS BEFORE SENATE, HOUSE

Pennsylvania Congressman To Confer with Senator Capper on Proposed Legislation

Cleveland, Dec. 30—A showdown in baseball's latest scandal will take place in the office of James O. Murfin, attorney for Tyrus Cobb, tomorrow, at Detroit, it was announced here today by W. H. Boyd, counsel for Tris Speaker.

"Speaker and I will leave here at 8 a. m. Friday and upon our arrival in Detroit go into immediate conference with Cobb, Joe Wood, Murfin and others," Boyd said.

Washington, Dec. 30—A joint investigation of organized baseball by senate and house will be sought as a result of the ousting of Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, it was indicated today.

Representative Kelly, Republican, of Pennsylvania, announced that he would confer with Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas, to devise ways and means of revealing the inside workings of baseball management.

"I should like to see a joint committee named, or one investigation conducted before senate and house committees sitting together," Kelly said.

"As it appears more feasible to get action in the senate, I will defer to the action of that body."

Frown on Probe

Congressional leaders generally continued to frown upon the proposed investigation.

One of the leading lawyers in the senate declared congress had no authority to act and also declared that Speaker and Cobb could not succeed in a million dollar damage suit against Judge Landis, baseball czar.

"The federal government has nothing to do with the internal workings of organized baseball," said this senator, who is thoroughly familiar with the legal machinery of baseball. "It has been officially decided that organized baseball is not interstate commerce and even if it were otherwise, the present issue could give rise to no federal question whatsoever."

TY COBB BACK IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 30—Ty Cobb, his eyes flashing the spirit that made him famous on the ball field, was here today to plan the fight he hopes will make organized baseball "swallow the words" that drove him from the diamond.

He was accompanied by "Smoky" Joe Wood, former big league pitcher, and E. S. Burke, of Cleveland, adviser and friend of Cobb.

The colorful star conferred with J. O. Murfin, prominent Michigan jurist, who will advise him on the legal course, if any to pursue against those whose charges made him the center of baseball's latest scandal.

Neither Cobb nor Murfin would discuss reported plans for a suit against Frank Navin, president of the Detroit club, Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, Ban Johnson, president of the American League and the league itself.

Cobb and Wood declined to comment on a statement attributed to Fred O. West, former employe at Navin Field, in which the letter was credited with saying that the money mentioned in the baseball scandal was wagered on a horse race and not on a ball game, as claimed by "Dutch" Leonard, former Detroit pitcher.

RISBERG WILL BE GIVEN HEARING

Chicago, Dec. 30—Charles "Swede" Risberg, former shortstop, on the Chicago White Sox team, banished with six of his mates from organized baseball in 1920 following exposure of the "framed" world series of the year before, will be given an opportunity to tell what he knows of "crooked baseball," Commissioner K. M. Landis indicated today.

The former "black sox" infielder had announced that he had a lot of "inside information" that would crumble still further the tottering pillars of baseball, but charged that "Landis and the big bosses do not want this information."

Risberg poo-poohed the Cobb-Speaker-Wood-Leonard scandal and ridiculed Commissioner Landis for his handling of the case. He challenged Landis to a showdown and indicated that if the commission is really interested in baseball crookedness he could tell him things that would make the Cobb-Speaker affair look tame.

HAVING HARD TIME

Snow Makes Foraging Difficult For Birds

Following a second heavy fall of snow here Monday, now completely covering the ground, many birds are foraging hopelessly for food.

When winter snows dispel their only chance of obtaining food birds are at the mercy of the kind housewives who will scatter a few unneeded crumbs in the snow. A kindly and charitable deed and one that will bring its own reward—that being one of the best means of taming and observing birds.

Several "readers" of the Star have called and requested that an article in the paper call to the attention of Marion people the necessity of feeding the birds.

ASK STRIKE INJUNCTION

Washington, Dec. 30—The Supreme Court was asked today to decree a permanent strike in a case brought for review by the Barber Painting Co., of New York. The opinion will have a far-reaching effect on the unrestricted right of labor unions to strike.

The latest carriages are made from flowers, the circular panels of united blossoms being worn over the ears instead of dangling ornaments of precious stones.

MRS. J. O. OBENOUR RITES TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. J. O. Obenour, who died yesterday morning at her home in Huntington, Ind., will be held at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Otterbein Church, eight miles south of Kenton. Interment will be made in the Otterbein Cemetery. The body will be brought to Kenton Friday night on Erie Train No. Four, and taken to the home of Mrs. Obenour's mother, Mrs. Cora Lingo, at Otterbein Corners.

ALBERT FERRIN RITES ARE TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Civil War Veteran Dies in State Hospital, Columbus; Burial at Green Camp

Funeral services for Albert Ferrin, 84, Civil War veteran, who died Tuesday noon at the State Hospital, Columbus, will be held at the Green Camp Baptist Church in Green Camp at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in charge of Rev. J. Frank Smith, pastor. Burial will be made in Green Camp Cemetery.

The cause of Mr. Ferrin's death was given as infirmities of age. He had made his home in Green Camp for 40 years before which time he was a resident of this city. He was born Nov. 8, 1842, in Maine. His wife, Mary Foster Ferrin, preceded him in death 10 years ago.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Winifred Sage of Toledo; four sons, Maurice Ferrin of Green Camp and William, Fred and Harry Ferrin of Columbus, and one sister, Miss Emma Ferrin.

JUDGE GRANT E. MOUSER ADDRESSES KIWANIANS

Urges Carrying of Christmas Spirit Over into New Year in Talk

Judge Grant E. Mouser was the speaker this noon at the regular meeting of the Marion Kiwanis Club at Hotel Harding. Judge Mouser talked on the hopes for the New Year, this being the last meeting of the local Kiwanis Club for 1926. In the absence of A. W. Kette, president, Jay H. Vaughan, vice president, was in charge of the meeting. Judge Mouser was introduced by Henry R. Schaffner, who was program chairman.

Ideals of the Kiwanis Club, as expressed in service to the community would go far in making 1927 better and happier, Judge Mouser said, if these ideals could be spread over the earth.

Carrying the spirit of Christmas over into the New Year would do much to help make it brighter and better, Judge Mouser said. That spirit which comes from the celebration of the Christmas season would make the world a better place to live in if it were to be followed throughout the year.

All vital problems will not have been solved during the last year, Judge Mouser said. There is one, the problem of the rising generation, which calls on all right living men and women to help solve, he said. "With a spirit of revolt among the young folks, who feel that they are being denied what their fathers had," Judge Mouser said, "it is the duty of those who look to the future of society to help solve this problem."

BANKRUPTCY SUIT

Included in the list of cases in bankruptcy filed in the Federal Court at Toledo, recently, is W. P. Converse, storekeeper, of this city, who listed his liabilities at $10,550.61 and his assets at $550. His wife, Ivy, listed liabilities at $3,303.27 and assets at $2,020.

FURTHER MORAL DISARMAMENT, SAYS COOLIDGE

President Sounds Call To Prevent Militarism; Change of Heart Needed

Washington, Dec. 30—President Coolidge arrived in the capital at 7:30 o'clock this morning from Trenton where he delivered an address last night.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 30—This nation must exert all its influence to prevent the rest of the world from relapsing into militarism, President Coolidge declared last night in a speech before the Trenton Historical society inspired by the 150th anniversary of the battles of Trenton and Princeton.

"Although we must protect our own interests and armaments, we should do all we can to further 'a moral disarmament'," he said.

"While I favor an adequate army and navy, I am opposed to any effort to militarize this nation," the president asserted. "We can render no better service to humanity than to put forth all our influence to prevent world from slipping back into the grasp of that ravaging system.

"I believe we are strong enough and brave enough to resist another domination of the world by the military spirit through our own independent action."

Moral Disarmament

Neither laws nor treaties are strong enough, however, wholly to prevent militarism, Coolidge said.

"In nations, individuals have their counterpart. As we can expect some help from domestic laws, so we can expect some help from international covenants. While each represents the best that humanity can do at this time, neither in themselves is sufficient. So it is necessary to change the heart of nations. This has often been referred to as moral disarmament.

"If the world had a complete change of heart, complete moral disarmament, complete mutual understanding, complete sympathy, we would have little need of armaments and no need at all for international treaties limiting their use and size.

"It is because all nations are in danger from this source that we ought to provide such artificial barriers as are possible for the protection of the peace and welfare of humanity.

Avarice, Jealousy, Hate Remain

"It is because the spirit of avarice, of jealousy, of hate and of revenge is not yet eliminated from the hearts of the nations that it is well for them to take counsel together that they may devise means for protecting themselves from these evil counselors, that they may deliver themselves from their control and come more completely under the dominion of benevolence, kindliness, charitableness and good will.

"Altogether too much of international relationship is based on fear. Nations rejoice in the fact that they have the courage to fight each other. When will the time come that they have the courage to trust each other?"

TEST METAL'S STRENGTH BY NEW "RADIOGRAPHY"

Process Similar to That Embodied in X-Ray; Every Defect Shown

Dayton, Dec. 30—Scientists at McCook Field today began to use what they designated as "radiography" in the examination of metals for interior defects.

The process is similar to that embodied in the X-ray and will be used to a very large extent in the examination of motor blocks for airplanes. Through ordinary methods of inspection, latent defects within metal of all kinds are frequently undetected until something happens.

By the new process, every defect from a bubble within the casting, or an interior crack, is brought out in bold relief. Detection of such defects within the metal, it is claimed, will contribute much to the safety of airplanes of the future.

Inspection by radiography is the most economical method of inspecting metals yet devised, it is said, because any faults existing within it are revealed immediately, eliminating long and costly testing.

The scientists say they have merely "scratched the surface" in the use to which radiography may be put and experimental work will be continued.

FUNERAL TODAY

Last Rites Held at Piqua For Dr. Ernest A. Smith

Piqua, Dec. 30—The funeral for Dr. Ernest A. Smith, president of Toledo University and close personal friend of Woodrow Wilson, was held this afternoon, the Rev. J. F. Lewis officiating.

Dr. Smith died suddenly Tuesday morning, presumably from an attack of heart failure. He was to have assumed his duties at Toledo University Jan. 1 and Mrs. Smith was preparing to move from La Crosse, Wis., where he was superintendent of schools to Toledo, next week.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR REUNION OF CAMPERS

Members of the Young Men's Christian Association who attend the summer camp at Camp Robert Uhler, Hegburn, will hold a reunion at the Y. M. C. A. building at 6:30 o'clock tonight. "Slice of a Camp Day" will be the subject of the program which will consist of several hours enjoyment of the regular sports and features of the camp life.

Daily Proverb—"Do what you consider right whatever the people think of it, despite its censure and its praise."

Still, let us be fair to Europe. We have specimens of the dead beat element over here also.

And speaking of the New Year's article, of course, a lot of time and effort may be saved by making up your mind that you won't make any.

True, there was an occasional blemish, but, taken as a whole, we will have to admit that it has been a pretty good year, after all.

"Is there any profit in tobacco?" asks an exchange. There must be some. The ten-cent cigar of thirty years ago now sells for a dollar.

After the first thousand or two, we were not so much surprised that "Ma" Ferguson was turning so many convicts loose as that Texas had so many to be liberated.

It's hard to understand why Chicago should be straightening the crooks in her river at this time when she has so many out of it so much more in deed of straightening.

We assume that the enforcement department justifies the poisoning of liquor with its resultant fatalities on the ground that it is within the spirit of the law.

The original report was to the effect that the ice of that Maine lake broke and let Gene Tunney through, but after he has had time to think the thing over a bit he may decide that he was poisoned.

Deaths as a result of automobile accidents numbered 21,627 in 1925, or one for every 923 cars. Anyway, we true aristocrats of the land have the satisfaction of knowing that we are able to escape 922 of 'em.

"Ex-Crown Prince's Son Wins Four Duels; Must Fight Nine To Gain Bonn Honors," read a headline in a recent issue of a New York City daily. The German government may have changed and likewise the plain people of Germany, but manifestly the German nobility is a lot like the leopard.

Dr. Michael Pupin intimates that static marks the attempts of other planets to talk to us. It it's necessary to learn this static talk to communicate with our neighbors of this solar system, here's notice of our resolution to ignore all neighborly duties and demands.

His two wives having interceded in his behalf, "Ma" Ferguson has commuted the death sentence of a Texas slayer on the ground that he is insane. Still, the mere fact that a man has married two women doesn't necessarily prove him insane. He may be just naturally reckless.

A Chicago woman has confessed that she paid a thug up there $137.50 to kill the man with whom she was living so that she could secure the $1,000 insurance on her so-called common-law husband's life, made payable to her, and return to her real husband, from which it may be seen that this particular form of "protection" sometimes proves an added hazard.

Our news columns told us, a day or two ago, that 244 bright young men and women had passed the state bar examination, which is hardly what we would call a situation tending to boost the batting average of the joy of living.

A number of weeks having elapsed, we feel that we may point out with all propriety to that prosecutor in the Hall-Mills trial that if the funeral of the "Pig" woman he had brought into court in a "dying" condition on a stretcher isn't pulled off pretty soon, he is liable to be accused of being guilty of legal trickery.

The Plan Brings Results.

The sudden spurt taken in the payment of delinquent taxes on personal property, recorded in our news columbus a day or two ago, illustrates a very common trait in humanity. People may not be seriously worried over what they may owe in the way of taxes on personalty, of which publication is not regularly made as is the case with delinquent taxes on realty, but they are not overly anxious to have the general public aware of the fact. This, of course, does not apply to the majority, but it does apply to many.

The plan publicly to read the names of the delinquents and the amounts they owe has caused such a squaring up of delinquent accounts of this nature as the treasurer's office has not experienced in years. The fact that such taxes are being paid shows that the ability to pay has not been lacking, but rather the inclination.

So successful has been the plan in causing the payment of these delinquencies, that it is a matter for regret that it has not been employed heretofore. No doubt had resort to it been made in the past, the accumulations on the books of the treasurer would not have been anything like what they were when the proposal to give such delinquencies publicity was announced.

We Are with the Visitor.

Had we been present during the verbal clash between Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, Detroit pastor and writer, and Dr. G. A. Studdert Kennedy, chaplain to the king of England and famous for his work among the soldier boys during the Great war, which occurred before the National Student conference up in Milwaukee, our sympathies would have been wholly with the visiting clergyman.

"The nation is now in the grip of conflict between those who have property and those who haven't," declared Dr. Niebuhr.

"It is the duty of the church to associate itself with those who are poor, oppressed and exploited."

"No," broke forth Dr. Kennedy, "the church should have nothing to do with economic disputes. To it, all people, the burgoise as well as the proletariate should all be in the family of God."

"But the church preaches love and equality," interrupted Dr. Niebuhr. "And certainly power and privilege, such as is vested in the ruling class, is destructive of love."

"That is not true," retorted Dr. Kennedy. "The capitalist can hold privileges for the benefit of society. He can consider his factory given by God and given in trust.

"There will always be some one to give orders and some one to take them. We must consider the efficiency of industrial autocracy. Democracy is certainly not efficient. You just admit that the worker is tremendously free outside. It is very dangerous to preach a doctrine that by handing the prosperity of a capitalist over to the state, he will be more a Christian. Under state socialism, there can be just as much oppression, injustice and graft as under capitalism."

We have never been able to understand where some of our ecclesiastical friends get the view that Christianity and capital can not walk hand in hand and that a community of spirit is possible only between Christianity and poverty. Possibly they build their view upon the difficulty which would attach to the endeavor of the camel to pass through the needle's eye. But they must not overlook the parable of the talents.

We are everlastingly sick of the view that to be a Christian one must be poor in material things. It's a twin brother to that other delusion that one must be poor to be honest. All such views place a premium upon laziness, incompetency and ignorance. They encourage idleness and assail thrift. There is no justice in them. They ignore all the requisites of what is best and noblest in mankind. They are in direct opposition to the best of human teachings, the best in citizenship, the best in domestic, business, professional and official life, and the church can not afford to utter them. We do no mean that the church can not afford in a financial way to offer such teachings, but rather that it can not afford in a moral and spiritual way.

Then, too, it's always possible that General Dawes received the Nobel peace prize for having overslept himself a bit that time.

Organized charity may have its place in the eternal scheme of things, but it is decidedly out of its place when it renders relief in homes supplied with an automobile and a radio set.

As proof that Youngstown is a healthy place, the Vindicator of that city points out that "not a single person was killed by Yuletide rum" up there. Still, it's not impossible that the Youngstown folks may have discovered a substitute for their stomach linings.

Still there is this difference between the Australian beauty coming to this country and the average American professional beauty; the former wears clothes.

It is seriously proposed to double the gasolene tax despite the fact that it produces at the present rate over $10,000,000 annually. Even though they scorn us, we true aristocrats will have to admit that the automobilists are bearing something of a burden as it is.

THE BANNER YEAR.

Feeding Infant in Second Year.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A famous specialist in children's diseases said this: "Probably half the children between the ages of one and five years that come to the physician for treatment have the diet to account for their condition.

Such watchful care is given the baby through its first year that it is reasonably certain to get along without serious trouble. But after it is weaned from the breast, and particularly when it begins to take solid food, it has entered upon another dangerous period.

I am always and forever urging grownups to eat less. It is almost as important to urge that children in the second year be guarded against overfeeding.

Whether we are dealing with an adult or with a baby it is a great mistake to take food too frequently. The digestive organs need rest just as much as the muscles do. If the feedings are too frequent the stomach is upset and within a few days or weeks the health will be much impaired.

After weaning the child is introduced to one food after another until it is old enough to take practically the same meals its parents enjoy. It will make no progress toward normal eating unless it has a good appetite. This cannot be had unless the food is enjoyed and digested.

"Hunger is the best sauce," we have been taught. It is just as necessary to have the sauce made the incentive for the baby's eating as it is yours.

You know how faithfully you watched the clock during the first year of the baby's life. It is just as important to feed the child with clocklike regularity during the second year.

This youngster is old enough to sit in his high-chair at the family table during breakfast and the mid-day meal. Most of the foods the average family takes are appropriate dishes for the child.

The evening meal comes too late for the youngster. Let it be fed at five o'clock or soon after and go to bed right afterward. The baby needs more sleep than the rest of the family.

The increasing number of teeth should be a reminder that Nature has given them for a purpose. They are to be used and will suffer if they are not given work to do. It is a great mistake to depend on mushy foods. Let those little teeth work.

Weaning is begun between the ninth and twelfth months. That is, the usual time is at this period. The child's welfare, the mother's health, the weather—these are factors which will determine the exact time.

Begin early, say at the eighth or ninth month, to teach the child to take milk and water with a spoon. The earlier it learns how to eat, the quicker and easier will be the weaning process.

Use the same common sense in planning the meals of the baby in its second year that you did with his first. Then all will go well.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

"B. B." Q.—What will remove the scars left by pimples?

A.—To make the scars left by pimples less noticeable, apply hot and cold compresses, alternately for ten minutes, night and morning. Follow this by gently massaging with a good cold cream. X-ray is also helpful.

• • •

H. P. Q.—What causes a disagreeable odor from the person when one warms up the least bit from exercise? A daily bath with plenty of soap and water does not help. What do you advise?

A.—The odor is due to perspiration caused by the increased circulation. After bathing use a solution of alum,—2 drachms to a pint of water. You should really have treatment for nervousness.

• • •

H. C. W. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is, of course, essential. For full particulars send a self-adressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Seems like everybody likes to see a busybody get side-swiped. At that, I reckon there's something of a busybody about all of us, for we're all more or lers interested in the other fellow's business and family affairs. But the busybody that gets the laugh when he's hit is the reformer. I was told about a lady reformer that was specially down on cigarets, and I reckon it was in Kansas that she met a young kid, about eleven years old, trying to smoke as he walked along by a hedge fence. This here lady reformer was terribly shocked, and she thought this was the very place for her to do some good, as though the poor kid wasn't having trouble enough. So she lights out after him, and when she comes up with him she says:

"I wish you'd give me your mother's name and address. I want to tell her what her son is doing with a cigaret."

But kids is smarter than they were when that lady reformer was young. He looks at her kinda dignified and says:

"Well, yes, I'll give it to you. But I must insist on having your husband's name and address so's I kin tell him about you accostin' a strange man on the street without a introduction."—Copyright, 1926.

Vagrant Verse.

HILLS.

I never loved your plains!—
Your gentle valleys,
Your drowsy country lanes
And parch'd alleys.

I want my hills!—the trail
That scorns the hollow,—
Up, up the tagged shale
Where few will follow,

Up, over wooded crest
And mossy bowlder,
With strong thigh, heaving chest
And swinging shoulder.

So let me hold my way,
By nothing halted,
Until, at close of day,
I stand, exalted,

High on my hills of dream—
Dear hills that know me!
And then, how fair will seem
The lands below me,

How pure, at vesper-time,
The far bells chiming!
God, give me hills to climb,
And strength for climbing!

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

"We know the body is matter in motion," says Dr. Bartelmez, professor of anatomy in the University of Chicago. "What causes the motion remains to be discovered."

That's where faith comes in. Science has done a great job in showing us how the universe works. It has discovered the laws and finds the universe to be orderly. Why it works is another matter. We need something even more important than science to answer that question. Perhaps faith and religion are what we need.

There are few satisfactions in life more real and lasting than the satisfaction that comes from telling yourself the truth and looking facts in the face. When you have done that, you have a policy. On a policy you can build a platform, and stand on it for all time.

We are commanded especially in the holiday season to make free with our expressions of affection. That is commendable. But with expression should come performance. No expression of affection is a perfect substitute for bringing home the bacon.

Homer sang about the "glory of a firm, capacious mind." There are plenty of firm minds. Firmness might sometimes better be called hard-boiledness. But capacious minds are more rare—and greatly to be desired.

A capacious mind is one big enough to hold some appreciation of the other fellow's problem and point of view. A capacious mind is one big enough to have room for tolerance.

God give us some more capacious minds!

Ten Chicago railroad presidents predict 1927 will be a year of record-breaking business. Railroad presidents are not sentimentalists by training or trade. In their cases the wish is not entirely fathered by hope. Psychologically their expectancy of good business may have something to do with getting it. Mostly their prediction is based upon reasoning and sound information.

Somebody suggests: Write about New Year's resolutions.

Don't worry about them. Put into your minds for all time this verse from "The Chambered Nautilus" by Oliver Wendell Holmes. It is resolution enough for a life time:

"Build thee more stately mansions, oh, my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low vaulted past!
Let each new temple nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

From Our Readers.

Great Economy Necessary

Editor Star:—I have noted from time to time in your paper articles relating to the financial condition of our city, the latest being that strict economy is needed if our finances are to hold out at the present rate of taxation.

First, let me say in carefully reading your editorial on this subject, I note that while the valuation of city property jumped about $16,000,000, three years ago, the levy also jumped some $2 per thousand, yet, with this increase of valuation and increase of levy, we are running behind, for I understand that allowing for the maximum income from every source obtainable for the coming year, and operating expenses remain the same as the past year, there would be a shortage in operating expense funds of more than $50,000. In other words, the city will run behind about $4,500 per month, unless something is done to reduce operating expenses, which gets us to the point we have in mind.

The burden of a municipal court was foisted upon the city without the taxpayers having aught to say in the matter, and if the readers of this paper paid any attention to the attitude of our council in establishing this court you can readily figure that this court will cost the city the first year from $15,000 to $20,000.

In my opinion, this cost could have been reduced to some extent, as for instance, we do not see the need of an assistant prosecutor for this court at $1,350 per year, or at any sum whatever, for about nine-tenths of the cases that come into the police court, that is of a criminal nature, have no defense and need no prosecution, and the city solicitor surely could find time to prosecute the other one-tenth. In civil cases both sides provide their attorneys.

I have heard it said that this court would be self-sustaining. In this connection, I will state that I saw in the Columbus paper, some time ago, that the municipal court of that city was asking the city council for an additional appropriation to pay salaries or the court would be unable to function until the first of the year, which I think answers that argument.

Our city council must retrench or face an unpleasant deficit this next year. I doubt if our citizens will submit to another occupational tax knowing that property valuations were increased and the tax rate also to a point where taxes are a real burden.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Why is fiat money so called? R. D. K.

A. This name was given to irredeemable paper currency during the greenback agitation after the civil war, from the claim of the Greenback party that the fiat of the government could give value to a circulating medium.

• • •

Q. What regulations govern foreign aircraft in the United States? H. S.

A. Aircraft of the armed forces of a foreign country can navigate only upon an authorization order of the secretary of state. The civil aircraft of a foreign country may navigate, except in interstate or intrastate commerce, when there is reciprocity between the countries.

• • •

Q. Why is it easier to swim from France to England than from England to France? L. D.

A. There is a difference in tide. The shore contour on the French side results in an offset tide that helps the swimmer toward England, but retards one coming toward France.

• • •

Q. How many foreigners live in China? G. L.

A. Peking has about 4,000 foreigners in its population of 1,000,000. In the entire republic there are said to be 324,947 foreigners. Of these, 261,701 are Japanese, 35,956 Russian, 14,775 British, and 9,356 American.

Q. What state had the first large well-developed state-owned park that was accessible to a large population? F. M.

A. The Palisades Interstate park, in New York and New Jersey, was the first to be developed. Work toward it was started as early as 1895.

• • •

Q. What woods are suitable for carving? W. B.

A. There are a number that are adapted to carving, among which are black walnut, yellow poplar, basswood, red gum and oak.

• • •

Q. Where was the first country club in the United States located? G. S.

A. Roland park in Baltimore.

• • •

Q. How many radio receiving sets are used on farms? P. B.

A. According to the department of agriculture there are over 550,000 receiving sets on farms today, and of this total a vast majority were installed primarily to receive weather and market reports.

Changes in Zone Boundaries Likely To Be Considered

CITY COUNCIL MAY BE ASKED TO TAKE ACTION

Some Property Owners on E. Center-st Favor Extension of Commercial District

Changes in Marion's zone boundaries, established in the zoning ordinance passed by City Council more than a year ago, are likely to be up for consideration in the near future, it developed today following announcement that the City Planning Commission had refused to grant a permit for construction of a two-story business and apartment building on a lot at the intersection of Baker and E. Center-sts.

Some property owners on E. Center-st, it was learned today, favor extension of the commercial district farther east than the present limit in order to provide for business development in that direction. The extension is also advocated by a number of local real estate dealers, who maintained that most of E. Center-st at least part way to Greenwood-st can no longer be classed as strictly residential territory and that it should be made available for commercial use.

District Boundary

The city's commercial district, according to the present zoning map, extends east on Center-st only as far as McWilliams-st. Beyond that limit, no business buildings can be erected without a permit from the City Planning Commission.

Action of the commission in refusing to permit O. K. Harris to build a business structure at Baker and Center-sts is expected to speed up the movement for a change in the zoning boundaries, especially as far as E. Center-st is concerned. The Harris application was rejected because the commission felt that the neighborhood about Baker and Center-sts is not ready for business development.

Higher Values

Value of most of the E. Center-st property between McWilliams-st and Greenwood-st has reached a point where its use for residence purposes is too costly, advocates of the zoning change say. The thoroughfare between those points is compared with that part of Broad-st in Columbus where numerous old homes have been abandoned as residences and converted to commercial usuage.

Many of the Broad-st homes, all stately and spacious structures, are now occupied by private schools, art shops, fashion stores dealing in apparel for both men and women, and various other lines of business adapted to buildings of that class.

It is believed that business enterprises of this kind are certain to develop in Marion within the next few years and that the zoning map should be changed to make the development possible. Under the present zoning arrangement, none of the dwelling houses in the restricted residence districts can be used for any of these purposes.

Four Divisions

The city's zoning ordinance, adopted Nov. 9, 1925, divides the city into four districts, as follows residence, commercial, industrial and unrestricted. The City Planning Commission has full control of building operations in all of these districts.

In localities designated for residence purposes, building is limited to structures to be used as private dwellings, boarding houses, churches, sanatariums, philanthrophic educational institutions, lodging houses, tenements, private clubs and railway passenger stations.

Boarding houses allowed in this district are limited to 20 patrons and when this mark is passed, the building is classed as commercial property. Apartment buildings and similar structures come under the tenement classification.

Uptown District

Boundaries of the up-town commercial district, as designated in the zoning ordinance at this time, are as follows: on Center-st from the Pennsylvania railway to McWilliams-st; on Prospect-st from a point a short distance north of Pleasant-st to the railroads; on Main-st from a point midway between Pleasant and Church-sts north to George-st; on State-st between Church and Farming-sts; on Church-st from a point midway between Prospect and Pearl-sts east to State-st.

In addition there are several small districts in outlying territory classed as commercial sections.

There is a probability that extensions of the up-town commercial district to the south and north will also be advocated, but it is indicated that chief interest is being taken in the E. Center-st situation.

Mr. Harris, it is stated, plans to apply for another hearing before the planning commission in hope of obtaining a permit for the proposed building at Center and Baker-sts. He had intended to erect a two-story frame structure costing about $8,000, with a store room on the first floor and residence apartments on the second floor.

Big Four Double Tracking on Sandusky Division To Be Started Early in 1927

Main Construction Work Will Be Done Between Kenton and Bellefontaine; Increase in Freight and Passenger Traffic Necessitates 15 New Locomotives

Double track operations on the Sandusky Division of the Big Four Railroad are expected to start early in 1927, it has been announced. The main construction work will be done between Kenton and Bellefontaine, it is said.

Increase in freight and passenger business on the Big Four has necessitated the purchase of 15 large locomotives which will go into service in the near future, according to Superintendent F. E. Hayes, of the Cincinnati-Sandusky unit.

About half of these engines will be placed in service on the Sandusky division on passenger runs, since longer trains are now being run and two additional trains have been added within the last two months.

Great Speed

The new locomotives are capable of making 90 miles per hour, although such speed is prohibited by law.

It is understood that the freight business on the division has increased 100 per cent in the last six years. Present freight shipments are equal to those of last year when there was a phenomenal run on Lake coal. The freight of the Big Four, and especially the Sandusky Division, is approximately 50 per cent coal.

Actual work on the new track will likely start in the next few weeks.

Cleveland Chosen

The American Electric Railway Association, through the unanimous vote of its executive committee, has decided to return to Cleveland for the 1927 convention. Several railmen from this city attended the convention at Cleveland last summer.

Several factors contributed to the committee's decision, it was said today. These included the fact that Ohio holds a leading position in the manufacture of electric railway equipment, the advantages offered by Cleveland from the standpoint of assuring an adequate and representative exhibit, and the fact that the Cleveland 1926 convention committee aided materially in making this year's convention and exhibit the greatest ever held by the association.

The date for the 1927 meeting has been set for the week of Oct. 3-7.

Colonel Joseph H. Alexander, president of the Cleveland Railway Co., and chairman of the Cleveland convention committee, explained to the association's executive committee that in 1927 Cleveland will be in a position to offer additional exhibit space, as well as added hotel facilities.

Many executives of the Ohio electric railway companies have just been appointed to membership on committees for the association.

DRIFTING FREIGHTER IN NO IMMEDIATE DANGER

Clearton, 500 Miles East of New York, Is Without Rudder

New York, Dec. 30—The British freighter, Clearton, drifting without a rudder at a point about 500 miles east of New York, is in no immediate danger, her captain wireless the Independent Wireless Co., today.

The captain's message stated that he would ask the first vessel sighted to tow the Clearton to port, but would not require immediate assistance unless a storm breaks suddenly.

All broadcasting here was halted temporarily when the freighter's "S. O. S." call was received late last night.

PERSONAL PROPERTY OF G. L. MOORE TO BE SOLD

Personal property of the late George L. Moore, who died here on Dec. 1, will be sold at the clubrooms of Marion Lodge of Elks at 7:30 p. m., Jan. 5, John M. Brigel, administrator of the estate, announced today.

Mr. Moore, who was unmarried and had no relatives living here, passed away following an illness of more than a year. His body was interred at the Elks' Rest in Marion Cemetery, the first burial to take place in the plot purchased several months ago by the local lodge.

AMENDMENT OF NEW COURT ACT WILL BE ASKED

Marion County Bar Association Takes Action; To Petition Legislature for Change

Several changes in the statute enacted to establish a Municipal Court in Marion are to be proposed at the next session of the state legislature, according to plans now under way. The Marion County Bar Association has taken action in regard to the need of an amendment and John B. Clark and J. W. Jacoby have been appointed to study the statute and make recommendations.

The most important change to be suggested relates to the Court's finances. The statute provides that all money received from fines shall go to the city's safety fund, from which expenses of the police and fire departments are paid. The intention is to amend this section so that revenue from fines will be deposited in the general fund where it can be used to defray the expenses of the court.

Self Sustaining

It is expected that the court will become self-sustaining after operating six months or a year and attorneys and officials maintain that its earnings should go to a special fund to be used entirely for upkeep of the tribunal. Provision for turning this money over to the Safety fund was placed in the statue through an oversight, it is said, and should be changed by legislative enactment.

Other Changes

Other proposed changes relate chiefly to technical phases of the court's operation. One feature of the amendment would establish a uniform schedule of costs for all civil cases. In the statute as it now stands, costs in suits involving amounts below $300 are to be figured on the Justice of the Peace court scale, while suits for amounts above $300 are based on the Common Pleas Court schedule.

In order to simplify matters it is proposed to establish the same scale of costs for all litigation.

The new Court will have jurisdiction in all civil suits involving amounts up to $1,000. The limit in the Justice of the Peace court has been $300.

Social Activities

A NOVEL New Year's party was enjoyed by about 90 members of the Nine to Twelve Dance Club last night in the J. K. Schwinger Hall. A feature of the entertainment was the advent of "Old Father Time," representing the Old Year, in the person of Dr. E. K. Clark. Miss Jane Starner as "the spirit of the New Year" was featured in a dancing specialty after which she presented each of the guests favors of minature gold bells with which they were to "ring in the New Year."

A lovely lunch was served during the social hour. Among the out-of-the-city guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McLaren, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Hosts and hostesses for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Steffen, Mr. and Mrs. William Sams, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Branch Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Schwinger.

Prospect Street M. E. Epworth League Members Hold Social

Members of the Epworth League of the Prospect Street M. E. Church held a social meeting Tuesday night at the church for the pleasure of members who took part in the plays given by the league in the past month. The affair also was a farewell for Miss Alice Schott, who will leave Sunday for Cincinnati where she will enter the training school for nurses at Bethesda Hospital. Mrs. Harry Wilhelm and John Schott each gave brief talks and Mrs. Blanche Sprang entertained with a reading honoring Miss Schott. The program concluded with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds", by the assembly. During the social hour a sauerkraut supper was served. About 65 members and friends were in attendance.

CANADA INTRODUCES SCHOOL HOUSE ON WHEELS

Canada is introducing "school houses on wheels" in sparsely settled districts. Where the population does not justify the erection of a school, the government sends a specially equipped railway coach with a teacher. At each stopping place, pupils come for lessons and are assigned home work for a few days or weeks and the car is moved on, to return later. Photo above shows school in session on a car.

Living

THE BLUE BIRD

Loving

THERE are many problems that perplex us, countless puzzles that we find it difficult to solve, but if there is one query above all others which may lay claim to being the real eternal question. It is—

"What is happiness?"

No one has ever given nor ever can give the right answer since happiness does not mean the same thing to all men. "We" interpret it in certain terms, "They" give it quite another meaning!

Happiness is nothing that can be bartered or even bargained for.

It is that intangible, bliss-ful something that All men dream of and few realize.

This much we are sure of, and nothing more!

Many of us are adventurously eager. We dare the fen and forest, lured from peaceful hearthside by the flutter of bright wings, only at last to capture in our net the raven of despair in the us. To receive it we must give it, place of the blue bird we've pursued so far.

DISCONTENT entered into the Garden, and Adam and Eve lost Paradise.

Cleopatra and her humblest handmaiden became close kin in their passionate quest for that which ever eluded them.

Today, as throughout the ages, man wonders and blunders, learns from experience and comes to his own conclusions, working out for himself some solution, however incomplete and faulty, to the universal problem.

Over in Paris a short while ago a Princess and a painter and a premiere danseuse were asked their several opinions.

"Happiness," declared the dancer, "happiness is in love. Modern haste has stolen from love all the delightful uncertainty and dear poetry of the slow, old fashioned days. But if one will seek carefully happiness may still be found in romance."

"Happiness is in the joy of being," said the painter. "Happiness is in creating, in giving our work to the world!"

"Happiness is to forget time!" Thus speaks the Princess. "Happiness is in We must share it to realize its delight. We must lose it to fully know its value."

To us the princess seems most truly wise.

NEW WRINKLE!

Bracelet Sets Into Ankle of Stocking Itself, Says France

Paris, Dec. 30—The newest wrinkle in evening hosiery has made the bracelet set into the ankle of the stocking itself. It takes the place of the very fine silver and gold cimins which have been worn for some time about the ankle, emulating the old slave band. Inset bands of gold or silver fabric are placed at ankle height and stones are set over these in a straight line or one that curves near the point where the bracelet apparently fastens. The stones are in white as well as colors, especially blue to represent sapphires.

And not only do we find bracelets on ankles these days, but in their natural place, the arm. Pearl bracelets, especially those in seed pearls, which are banded in wide rows and often caught with a row of big barroque pearls, are very popular. A gold bracelet is designed to look like a belt with the usual buckle and a long tabend extending from the fastening. The buckle and the bracelet band just behind it are both in black enamel with edges in gold.

"Blaze of Glory"

—BY FRED M'ISAAC—

Again we had to withstand a terrific battering as they pounded on towards our goal. Finally we stood with only a couple of yards between them and a touchdown when the whistle blew for the end of the half. It was the luck of football.

In the locker room, the coach got me to one side and heard my story.

"Confound these gamblers!" he exclaimed. "With every other sport in their hands are they going to ruin football, too? My boy, I suffered more than you did during the last twenty-four hours. It was incomprehensible to me, your failure to return last night."

"Did you notify the police?"

"No. It seemed like poor sportsmanship. If you failed to show up, we had to keep quiet until after the game. We couldn't throw a shadow over Yale's victory if she won, and we couldn't risk letting anybody think that Yale had anything to do with your disappearance. I want to tell you when we started the game without you I was a very sick man. How do you feel?"

"I'm in pretty good shape, considering. Do you think we can win?"

"I don't know. They have a more consistent attack and a strong defense. Your best plan is to cut loose with everything at the beginning of the half and if you score, play a defensive game for the rest of the afternoon. If your tricks don't work they will wear us down and the whistle may not save us next time."

We went back on the field ready to cut loose, take chances, behave recklessly, but score in the first five minutes, if possible. It was Yale's turn to kick off, but this time the kick was high and our quarterback was downed in his tracks on the fifteen yard line.

He looked at me in amazement at the play for which I called, but nodded like a good soldier.

When the ball was put into play I stood in the halfback position but just a yard from the line of scrimmage. I was through and down the field before Yale dreamed that we would dare try a forward pass within a few yards of our own goal.

The ball was passed fairly, but by no means was it as long a pass as Stephens used to throw. I caught it some twenty yards down the field, but I was fairly clear and I ran twenty-five yards further before I was downed. We lined up on Yale's forty yard line.

On the next play I was through again with the entire Yale team on my heels but this time we fooled them because it was a short pass to the right, caught by an end who made fifteen yards on it.

This brought us to their twenty-five yard line in two plays, and our stands were screeching themselves hoarse, while Yale was growling encouragement to their team, asking them to fight, as though they were doing anything else.

They expected my end runs from kick formation, and seemed to have worked out a very effective defense for them. On the next play I took the ball from the quarterback's hands while playing close to the scrimmage line, and behind a very ingenious interference darted out towards their right end, who was prettily boxed, and I went around him without having a hand laid on me, to be brought down by their quarterback on their five yard line.

And now our followers were quite insane, and their frenzy communicated itself to us. We had rushed Yale the entire length of the field, it should be easy to push them back five yards more. But I was almost exhausted; the experience of the night before had worn my nerves to a frazzle and my strength was slipping. I couldn't think clearly. Their quarterback had banged my head on the ground pretty hard with his last tackle. I had no suggestions to make to the quarter.

And a Yale team on its five yard line shows the qualities that make its mascot the bulldog. We hurled two plays against their line and netted two yards. Then we tried a short forward pass which grounded.

The next play was intended to be a skin tackle drive but something went wrong, the mass piled up and then the ball dribbled out free and lay before the Yale quarter, standing just in front of his goal line.

I saw him pick it up, dragged myself out of the pile and rushed to him. Wishing to evade me he stepped back, only one step but he was behind his goal line; had retired voluntarily. I threw him and we had a safety.

A safety is the least understood score in football. It must be secured by the retiring of the side with the ball behind its goal line and not by pushing the man with the ball back. Had I tackled him in front of the goal and fallen with him behind the line, it would not have been a score. It happened that the quarterback made an involuntary backward motion to avoid me, and was standing behind his goal with the ball under his arm when I threw him. It counted two points, and made the score nine to seven in our favor.

The crowd is rarely able to see just what happens in a play of this kind. When the score board showed two more points for Harvard our stands went mad, while Yale grumbled and protested. But it happened that the official had seen the play clearly.

We were ahead but it was no safe lead. A goal from the field would beat us, or a touchdown, and only five or six minutes of the second half had been played. Plenty of time for Yale to win the game.

Yale, of course, kicked off to us, and this time I ran it back ten yards to our twenty yard line. We tried two or three plays with a total gain of only five yards, and then kicked. It was an exceptionally good punt, and our ends were down, giving Yale the ball on her thirty yard line.

Then began the most trying experience possible on a football field, that of a team which has a slight lead and is playing safe, seeking only to hold its opponent until time is called. Yale tried several end plays but these were not successful because of our good ends and my ability to cover ground as a defensive back. They could gain through our line fairly consistently, and they figured they had time to batter out another touchdown. Slowly, steadily they advanced. At the end of the third quarter they were on our forty yard line.

Our coach began to send in fresh substitutes, to bolster up our guards and tackles who were wearing out under the constant banging.

Yale tossed in fresh backs who charged us full of power and ambition. They beat us back slowly but surely, disdaining to punt on fourth downs and several times getting their distance. Once we held them for downs and I got away on an end run which gave us twenty precious yards. But with three minutes to play they had us in the last ditch. We were on our eight yard line. In three charges they had reached the three yard line and then it was fourth down with three yards to go. They were right in front of the goal posts, an easy goal from the field; far better, their general thought, to win the game by a goal than lose it trying for three yards on a single rush.

Their dropkicker took position about ten yards behind the line and at that moment I touched our left tackle on the shoulder and took his place in the line, sending him to half-back. My speed might get me through in time to block the kick; it was our only hope. If the kick was blocked they had lost the game; if it crossed the bar they had won.

It was the most exciting moment of any game I had ever played; they tell me that a man in the audience dropped dead from heart failure at that instant.

The center passed the ball; I tricked the opposing tackle, and dashed through. A halfback tried to step me but I was over him and plunged wildly at the kicker at the moment that he was kicking the ball. I leaped high in the air holding my hands above my head. Glory be, I touched the ball with the tips of my fingers, deflecting its course. I dropped squarely upon the uplifted foot of the kicker with force enough to knock me completely out, and when I recovered the game was over. Time had been called at the moment the kick was blocked. Thus ended my football career, in what the newspapers called "a blaze of glory."

CHAPTER XXXIV

After the team had dressed and we had escaped from the cheering, surging, crimson multitude to our hotel, I told the boys the whole tale of my detention, omitting, of course, the incident of the letter to which Rose Abbott's name had been forged. There was intense indignation, a desire to lynch the gamblers if they could be found, prophecies of what would have happened to the team if the gambler who was guarding me had stayed awake an hour longer.

The couch demanded, privately, just what motive had drawn me to an apartment in a strange town on the eve of the great game. To him, I showed the forged letter, and explained my suspicion that it was G. Burton Anderson who had framed the whole thing with the gamblers.

"I remember the fellow well," he said thoughtfully. "He was a pretty good lineman in a year when we were hard up for material in the line, but he had a mean streak in him that was shown on one or two occasions, and, in the Yale game, I had to take him out because he was laying down like a dog. I remember the fellow well," he said thoughtfully. ## MUCH INGENUITY USED ON ACCESSORIES

The ingenuity of the designers is not exhausted by any means by the gorgeous dresses, wraps, and hats that one sees in every shop. Umbrellas, lingerie, bags, gloves, handkerchiefs, all the dainty accessories that delight milady's heart are subjects for the clever, sometimes amusing ideas of the designers.

The bags (left) show two styles in the new materials. The one at the top is the envelope shape combining gold and silver embossed kid with a striking clasp of enamel and marcasite in various colorings.

The umbrellas and parasol (upper right) also show the latest in the designers' art. Umbrella handles show a dog's head and a parrot, while the parasol in the middle is made of mauve crepe de chine with velvet edging and flowers of appliqué velvet.

Today's Menu

Suggestions and Recipes Given Here For All Three Meals

The menu following would do nicely for New York's Day or for a Sunday dinner. An apple and celery salad or a pineapple salad might take the place of the plain lettuce.

Roasted Duck
Carrot Thins — Creamed Onions
Mashed Potato — Lettuce Salad
Rice Snow with Caramel Sauce

TODAY'S RECIPES

Carrot Thins

Select four rather large carrots, scrape and cut very thin with a sharp knife or on a slaw cutter. Let stand in ice water for half an hour before serving. They curl slightly and are pretty in a cut glass dish.

Rice Snow

Add gradually half a cup of rice to three cups of rapidly boiling water. Cook twenty minutes or until tender, salting slightly. Rinse quickly in cold water and put away to cool. Whip half a pint of cream until stiff, sweeten with powdered sugar, flavor with a few drops of vanilla, add the chilled rice until the whole mass is snowy looking. Pile lightly in tall glasses and serve with the following sauce: Melt a cup of granulated sugar till brown but not burned. Add a cup of boiling water and two tablespoons of butter. Cook three minutes. Serve warm on rice.

SUGGESTIONS

Clean the Sweeper

The carpet sweeper must be kept clean or it will not function properly. Clean the brushes with a coarse comb or wire hairbrush. Remove hair and threads from the rollers and wheels with a button hook or old scissors. When the brushes get worn down new ones should be substituted, and worn rubber tires should be replaced with new ones.

Use Newspapers

If you pad the corners of the kitchen table thickly with newspapers and lay a few sheets over the top before putting on the oilcloth the wearing qualities of the cloth will be increased.

Lay newspapers under the grass or fibre rugs. The dust filters through these rugs in spite of daily care. The soiled papers can be taken up occasionally and replaced by new ones.

New From Old

Two old blankets may be made into a useful crib quilt by cutting the worn places away and cutting them the right size, then putting them together with an interlining of outing flannel. You may, if you wish, had quilt the corners and center with worsted.

STAR WEDS HEIR IN ELOPEMENT AT CHESTERTOWN, MD.

Rosalind Lee, known as Lovey Lee to the Broadway stage, and Drake de Lanoy, young son of a wealthy New York broker, have just been married at Chestertown, Md. The elopement followed the first meeting of the couple a few days prior to the wedding.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

To think of a man betraying his own college and his own team for a few dirty dollars—honestly, Bill, I don't think it possible."

Then I told him of my own experience with Anderson, explained how he had stolen my unposted letter to Rose Abbott, and was the only person in the world who knew I loved that girl.

"Rose doesn't even know it," I assured him.

"Don't kid yourself. A girl always knows it, no matter how a chap tries to hide his feelings. They have some instinct that tells them whether a man is attracted or repelled by them. Why the deuce didn't you post the letter and avoid all this trouble?"

"I wish I had, now, of course, though she might not have taken it in the spirit in which it was written."

We celebrated our victory, broke training, cheered and sang and yelled ourselves hoarse that night. Yet for me, it was all sad. My football life had come to an end. Beginning with a hatred of the game and an intense distaste for its brutality, I had come to take my bruises as badges of glory.

After all, there is nothing so exciting as football to a participant, not even war, now that it has become an affair of trenches and barrages.

In the old days when two armies hammered away with battleaxes and swords and spears, there must have been a terrific thrill in fighting. Now you are wounded by an enemy a mile away, you don't have the satisfaction of giving quid pro quo, it's an entirely haphazard affair for the individual soldier. But in football you have the clash of battle, you fight desparately against men exerting all their strength and power against you. There is nothing to equal it.

The fellows who had another year or two in which to play for the college drew pleasure unalloyed from our celebration, but for myself and two or three other seniors, it was too much like attending our own funerals.

Because of the exertions of the game and my sufferings during the twenty hours preceding it in captivity, I slept hard that night, to be awakened by the ringing of the telephone beside my bed. I rolled over sleepily took up the apparatus and muttered "Hello" into the receiver. The voice that answered me shocked me wide awake in an instant.

PUMPKIN JAM WITH HONEY VERY TASTY DISH

Paris—"Pumpkin Jam with Honey" is a good one grandmother probably never tried.

Cut enough pumpkin into one pieces to make one pound. It should be the golden yellow variety. Put it into a jam kasin in which three-fourths pound of honey has been melting.

Let boil slowly for an hour.

Put into jars immediately and cover while it is still hot.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but is beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

LOAN COMPANY TO OPEN IN NEW QUARTERS JAN. 1

Marion Building, Savings & Loan Announces Formal Opening Plans

Formal opening of the Marion Building Savings & Loan Co.'s new home at 134 E. Center-st in the building purchased by the company more than a year ago, will take place Saturday, Jan. 1.

The new quarters, occupying the entire first floor of the building, will be open for public inspection from 2 p. m. until 9 p. m. As Saturday is a legal holiday, no business will be transacted and the loan company's officials and employes will devote their time and attention entirely to receiving the throng of visitors expected.

Attractive Home

Complete remodelling and redecorating, together with installation of entire new and modern banking and office equipment have made the loan company's home one of the most attractive in this section of the state.

The building, a three-story stone front structure originally known as the Evans block, was purchased by the savings and loan company on Oct. 14, 1925, from G. A. Thibaut. Since the purchase, the structure has undergone numerous changes and improvements throughout.

Preparations for transferring records and files from the company's present location at 128 W. Center-st are now under way and will be completed Friday night.

Negotiations for leasing the W. Center-st room to another tenant are in progress and are expected to be consummated in a short time.

A good motto is "Do it now," unless it fits up your time with trifling errands and chores, which it sometimes does.

GEORGE SCHMIDT UP FOR PAROLE FROM MANSFIELD

Youth Sentenced for Robbery from Marion Has Served Nearly Year

Parole of George Schmidt, who is now in the Mansfield reformatory serving a sentence for robbery in Marion, is now before state official, according to word from the state reformatory at Mansfield.

Schmidt will complete a term of one year in the reformatory on Jan. 15, where he was sent to serve an indeterminate sentence. The youth, who is now 19, was sent to the state institution after staging a holdup of a filling station here in November, 1924. He was captured, found guilty of robbing the filling station, and sent to the reformatory. Schmidt slugged the station attendant and seized the money in the cash drawer. He was arrested around Nov. 14, 1924, and released on bond of $1,000. Later he was found guilty of robbery, and taken to the reformatory Jan. 15, 1925.

His application for parole was made recently and will be acted upon by the state board in the next few weeks.

Petticoats? Yes, Marion Stores Still Have Them in Stock, Reporter Learns

THAT delightful, familiar and comforting "rustle of silk" which once heralded the approach of a Marion grandmother is no more, for petticoats have followed their former companions, long hair, long skirts, high-topped shoes, bustles, corsets, and woolen undies into oblivion.

No longer can the serviceable woolen or white muslin petticoat be purchased in Marion stores. Ask for a "petticoat" and the bobhaired, lipsticked clerk looks aghast, knowing, and finally sympathetic and produces from the topmost dusty shelf behind her counter a worn black box or so containing the nearest available in the petticoat line—a dainty satin slip—a neat little two by four only one step from the popular chemise.

Those who are very, very aged can remember the flowing, heavy muslin petticoats of grandmother's day—the kind that were gathered around a trim little waist and which hung to the ground in many folds terminating in two, or maybe three ruffles of heavy lace—grandmother's pride.

Does Slip

The girl, the woman, even the elderly lady of today, in similar style, each morning don a snug chemise, and, if intensely modest or anticipating the wearing of an extra thin dress, an imposing bit or ribbon slipped on over the head, hanging close to one's sides and suspended by dainty bits of ribbon and rosettes, known as a slip.

The petticoats of yesterday with their yards and yards of material were enough for a wardrobe of dainty chemises for the girl of today if indeed she would condescend to wear so heavy a material as muslin. The work required to fashion them, and the necessary lace adornment would prove almost as great an expense to the modern girl as her clever little sport dresses and knickers.

With the discard of petticoats has gone the "petticoat rule." When aprons, too, the few remaining voluminous kinds, have disappeared and with them their convenient apron strings, just how is woman to retain her rule over 'mere man"?

Sport Hats

While the dainty wisps of rosetted chemises waged a winning war on the cumbersome petticoats fashioned under folds and folds of lavender and old lace the chic sport hats of today gained control over fair feminine heads, introducing, following the Bonnett Revolution, nifty little felt, velour, and satin hats.

Martyrs to the cause of feminine charm were the stiff, shell-pink and sky-blue bonnets reclining on masses of golden or raven curls in Civil War days. In their stead has been introduced the smart, tight-fitting sport hat of today which demands bobbed hair, always bobbed hair, whether gray, henna, black brown or the preferable blonde.

A glance at the modest little bonnett perched jauntily on the head of a coquette of the revolution days denoted merely woman while, according to the latest development in milady's millinery the girl of today may reveal her station in life through her headware. By placing a perky little bow above the right ear can be told the condition of one's heart. A flaunting ribbon denotes that the wearer is single, a smaller, perkier bow signifies that the wearer is engaged and happy while the double-knotted bow, solemn, sedate and binding signifies that the wearer had best be addressed as "madam".

STREET CAR SERVICE IS INTERRUPTED BY SNOW

Expect To Have Cars On Regular Schedule On N. State-st Tonight

City streetcar service on N. State-st is expected to be resumed late this afternoon after being discontinued early today because of the havoc wrought by the snow, E. C. Macken, superintendent of the city lines, said today.

The company was forced to discontinue traffic altogether on N. State-st because of the condition of the street, but are operating cars from the transfer switch to the cemetery and are also running cars on Fairground-st. Twenty-six men were at work along the tracks today.

Center-st Cars Late

Center-st cars were from five to 20 minutes late in getting to Center-st this morning but have been operating since that time. These cars, however, also are running under difficulties because of bricks that have been raised above the tracks by the snow, and obstructed the path.

Three Center-st cars were disabled and sent to the repair shop before 7 o'clock this morning, Mr. Macken stated. Their chief affliction is broken brake rods and fenders. A great part of the western end of the Center-st jaunt has caused trouble but, with the exception of the Jefferson-st switch, the eastern section is in good condition.

ANOTHER NABBED IN WAR AGAINST TRAIN RIDERS

Edward Johnson, 42, of Avella, Pa., was arrested in the Erie railroad yards late yesterday afternoon on a charge of train riding, the arrest being made by one of the Erie officers who have been carrying on a campaign against offenders of this type during the last few months. The number of tramps seeking for transportation on trains entering Marion since the beginning of the cold weather season had been steadily increasing, officers say.

NUMBER OF STORES TO BE CLOSED NEW YEAR'S

A number of business concerns in the city will close all day Saturday in observance of New Year's Day it was announced today by the Retail Merchants' Bureau. Among the stores observing the day will be the drygoods and department stores, millinery stores, ladies' ready-to-wear, furniture, and jewelry stores.

DOUBLE WEDDING UNIQUE

London—A double wedding, in which the mother and son were both married at the same time, took place recently at St. Wilfred's church, Hayward's Heath, Sussex. The mother, Mrs. Barnes of the New Inn at Hayward Heath, a widow, was married to Edwin Arthur Richardson of Lewes, who is 20 years her junior. The son Percy William Barnes married Margaret Jackson of Horsham.

"KING" PURNELL TRIAL DUE EARLY IN FEBRUARY

House of David Head Unable To Walk into Court, Is Claim

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 30—"King" Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David cult, again today was to be brought into court on a stretcher to be bound over for trial to the circuit court on criminal assault charges of Mrs. Bessie May Woodworth, erstwhile girl member of the colony.

This trial will be heard probably early in February before Circuit Judge Edward White. Purnell is expected to sign a new bond today before Justice of the Peace Ara Weldon, before whom Mrs. Woodworth made sensational charges at Purnell's preliminary hearing last week.

On Jan. 12, Purnell again will go before Justice of the Peace Elizabeth Forban to be bound over for trial on similar charges brought by Mrs. Gladys Bamford Rubel and her sister, Mrs. Ruth Bamford Reed, of Detroit.

Purnell is reported at the House of David today to be still too weak to walk, but his attorneys, W. J. Barnard and H. T. Dewhirst, insisted they are certain they can defeat his girl enemies and will seek no court delay.

CALLES NOT TO GRANT OIL LAW EXTENSION

Officials Believe Washington Sources Fostering Antagonism Against Mexico

Mexico City, Dec. 30—Belief was expressed in official circles today that sources in Washington outside of the petroleum industry are fostering antagonism against Mexico's oil land and alien land laws which go into effect Saturday.

United States Ambassador Sheffield held a two-hour conference with Foreign Minister Seanz, after which President Calles announced that no extension would be granted for compliance with the petroleum law.

A number of important oil companies have failed to meet the Mexican law, alleging it was confiscatory. Production of oil is falling off in the Tampico fields as a result and petroleum exports are declining.

FIVE OFFICIALS ASSUME DUTIES FIRST OF YEAR

Several Changes Scheduled for Wyandot County Office Personnel

Upper Sandusky, Dec. 30— Several changes will soon take place among Wyandot county officials, five of those elected at the November election assuming charge of their duties the first of the year.

Russell H. Kear, of Wharton, elected state legislator, will succeed Dr. A. L. Walton and Atty. A. E. Walton will succeed Prosecuting Attorney P. J. Stalter, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Judge Earl B. Carter.

Sheriff W. W. Sheidigger will be succeeded by Harvey Stansberry in the office of Sheriff and will have as his deputy, his son, Raymond Stansberry.

G. A. Weininger will be succeeded as county commissioner by O. P. Kraft, of Sycamore. Dr. L. W. Naus will begin a new term as coroner.

B. C. Harman, elected auditor, will not assume his duties as successor to Anthony B. Kraus until in March.

HOMEWARD BOUND CAR CRASHES INTO FREIGHT

Paulding, O., Couple Escape with Only Minor Injuries in Accident

Richwood, Dec. 30—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tennis, Paulding, narrowly escaped fatal injuries while returning to their home following a visit with relatives in Richwood, according to word received here today.

The car in which they were riding was entirely demolished when it crashed into a moving freight train hid from view by a dense fog.

Mrs. Tennis is the daughter of H. P. Benham of Richwood. Both she and her husband received minor scratches and bruises in the accident.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED DURING WEEK AT BUCYRUS

THIEVES LOOT FAMILY LARDER

Kenton, Dec. 30—While members of the family were visiting, thieves broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Devore, near here, and carried away a large quantity of edibles and articles of household furnishings.

Included in the loot was the entire supply of canned goods which Mrs. Devore had stored for the winter, and a big supply of groceries.

Mr. and Mrs. Devore had gone to his parents to remain over the holidays. A neighbor who had been caring for the poultry and stock on the Devore land, first discovered the robbery. The rear door of the house was left ajar.

HUNDRED GUESTS ATTEND FATHER-SON BANQUET

Addresses Given at Galion Affair by Rev. Raymond W. Smiley

Galion, Dec. 30—The annual Father and Son banquet of the First Presbyterian church was held Tuesday night with about one hundred guests in attendance. The Ladies' Guild of the church served the delicious three course dinner and had charge of the decorating of the rooms and tables.

Following the dinner a program of unusually interesting numbers was enjoyed. Grant Gillespie acted as toastmaster and introduced Hugh Diamond who entertained the men with some of his favorite stories and Scotch songs. Attorney W. G. Geer and I. C. Gainther made profitable short speeches and Mrs. Lester Stevens sang a beautiful vocal number.

The principal speaker of the occasion, Rev. R. W. Smiley of Marion, was then introduced and was well received. His talk was appreciated by all and much benefit received by the points stressed in his interesting address.

As a fitting close to the program C. K. McFarland of Galion and Edward McAnale of Mt. Gilead contributed several vocal duets.

TO PRACTICE LAW

Morrow County Judge To Return to Former Vocation

Mt. Gilead, Dec. 30—Judge C. H. Wood, who will relinquish the bench to W. W. Vaughn Friday night, recently announced his intention of again practicing law in Mt. Gilead.

He has served as Common Pleas Judge for two terms and has practiced law for 27 years. Judge Wood expressed his one desire to practice law for 13 years—completing 50 years in law.

FT. WAYNE TEAM HANDS KENTON OUTFIT DEFEAT

American Leaguers Have Four Point Lead at End of Fray

Kenton, Dec. 30—The Kenton Reds faced some real opposition here last night in the Ft. Wayne Casey basketball team of the American Basketball League and were defeated by a score of 26 to 16 after forty minutes of hard fighting.

The entire last quarter found the Ft. Wayne aggregation in possession of the ball with the Reds unable to get the pill to score. The last period was more or less a defensive game on the part of the Caseys with the winners stalling under the Kenton basket.

The contest found both teams playing fast ball with the score being close all times. Fans were kept in a constant uproar by the fast playing. The Caseys stand third in the American court loop.

Borgeman Star

Borgeman at the left forward position was the big scorer of the game getting away with three field goals and three fouls for a total of nine points. Chadwick and Stonebreaker, two of the greatest professional basketball stars in the country played during the game.

One new player appeared with the Kenton Reds in Strull who held down the pivot position. He was held to a lone field goal by the close guarding of Chadwick.

A combination of basketball and football was played. Both teams used rough tactics from "stiff arming" and "tripping" on up. The Caseys led throughout the fray and by stalling in the last quarter managed to keep the Reds from overcoming the small lead.

Next Tuesday night the Reds will play a Flint, Mich., team on which Johnny Miner and George Haggerty are playing. This is another feature battle and should provide some real basketball for fans.

BUCYRUS AND GALION SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

New High School Gymnasium Dedicated in Fitting Manner with Two Games

Galion, Dec. 30—Galion High girls and boys basketball teams played their next home games of the year before a huge crowd of fans which packed the new Junior high gymnasium, last night. This game formally dedicated the gymnasium which will be used by the high school teams for all games. Galion's great rivals, the teams from Bucyrus were on hand to assist in the ceremony and made this first game a thriller through every quarter. Galion girls won 31-30 and the boys team lost 31-21.

Several hundred Bucyrus fans followed their teams to cheer them to victory in the initial game and besides the students from the local schools, the High school band was present to boost the Orange and Blue aggregations.

Girls' Game

The girls' game was played as a preliminary and was without doubt one of the most exciting and hotly contested girls games ever played in Galion. The local sextet was handicapped by the absence of their captain, Marjorie Cuttshall, but Esther Ritter, star forward who assumed the duties of acting captain conducted the team in a commendable manner. Through three quarters the Bucyrus team stayed in the lead although only by one or two points. The Red and White forwards seemed to have an eye for the basket and were able to break away many times for easy shots. During the third quarter the Galion defense tightened the team settled down to fast steady playing and in the last minute of play netted the basket that won the game. The score was 31-30 favoring Galion. Esther Ritter was the individual star of the game making 28 of Galion's points.

Boys' Game

In the big game of the evening however luck favored the team from the county seat and taking the lead during the first moment of play their chance of winning was never threatened. To fans it seemed as though the lads in the Red and White uniforms were covering the entire floor at once and simply outplaying the Orangemen in every way. The playing of Kish husky Bucyrus guard was largely responsible for Galion's defeat for not only did he contribute the majority of his team's points but was most active in breaking up Galion plays. For Galion Cutshall and Marshall, a new man on the squad, did the most effective work.

Although completely outplayed and outwitted in this game the Orangemen showed promise of developing into a real team before the regular schedule of league games begins. The score for the game was Bucyrus 31—Galion 21.

WATER COMPANY PROPOSITION TO BE DISCUSSED

Marysville Councilmen To Hold Important Meeting Tonight; Price Established

Marysville, Dec. 30—An important meeting of Marysville councilmen will be held tonight in the council chamber at which time the proposition for the purchase of the Marysville Water Company by the City of Marysville will be discussed. The plant has been officially offered for sale by the Toledo Banking Company which purchased it some time ago.

The company is willing to accept water bonds as payment for the plant and it is stated that according to the present water schedule the plant will pay out in less than 25 years. The price asked for the utility is $177,000 at which figure it was appraised by the State Utilities Commission. This is almost $100,000 more than the plant could have been purchased by the city a year ago when it was offered to the city by the old company.

KENTON SHOP LAY-OFF CONTINUED UNTIL FEB. 1

Order Received from General Offices; 30 Employes Affected

Kenton, Dec. 30—Suspension of work in the coach department of the Ohio Central railway shops of the New York Central Lines here, will continue until February 1, it was announced today following receipt of orders from the general offices in Columbus.

Approximately 30 employes are affected.

While the coach department is to remain closed, the freight car department will resume operations January 3, after a two week's layoff. One hundred men are affected by this order.

Both departments were closed down on December 18 for a period of two weeks.

Continuation of the suspension in the coach department is due to a general decrease in business, it was said, and to the fact that equipment for general repair work cannot be secured for at least 30 days.

STANFORD ELEVEN CONFIDENT OF VICTORY; MAY BE TOO "COCKY" IN ALABAMA BATTLE

"Pessimistic Pop" Warner, Stanford Coach, Fears Over-Confidence May Ruin Hopes of His Proteges; Alabama Crimson Tide Hopes To Have Deadly Effect on Leland

Los Angeles, Dec. 30—Despite the efforts of Mr. Glenn Warner—sometimes known as "pessimistic Pop"—to create an atmospbere of doubt and disillusionment, the sons of the Stanford red continue to impress the impressionable in their daily cavortings on the Pasadena rose bowl greensward, which goes to prove that murder will out, or something to the general effect.

Mr. Warner would fain arouse in the public consciousness a sincere questioning of the Stanford varsity football squad.

Had Successful Season

Mr. Warner's squad, it may be recalled, enjoyed quite a successful season out here on the Pacific slope, handing out many a slap to the chin and taking proportionately few in return. Success of this sort is apt to have a kickback, according to the findings of our leading psychologists.

The athletes so favored are apt, so declare these scientific gentlemen, to esteem themselves rather highly and thus fall victim to their own delusions of grandeur.

Wants Team "Under Dog"

Mr. Warner would much prefer to have his team enter this contest against the crimson tide of Alabama on day after tomorrow as the "under dog" in popular esteem. Under such circumstances, the good old-fashioned "fight talk" with which every well brought up coach favors his troop in critical moments just before the battle might be expected to talk with more deadly effect.

Stanford finds favor hereabouts because the folks hereabouts saw Stanford come from behind a 12-point lead and nose into a 13-12 victory over the Trojans, and those Trojans were a fair country football team, mates, despite their two disappointments.

Stanford Has Great Attack

Football followers of this vicinity can not forget the bewildering deception, the concerted power, the grim determination of the Stanford attack on that October afternoon. And because they remember, they figure that Alabama or any other club would have to be just short of superhuman to deny a repetition of that attack.

If more football followers of this vicinity could have seen this same Stanford attack in the latter stages of its development—against the Washington huskies in the middle of November and against the bedraggled California Bears the Saturday following—they would be even more prone to favor Stanford, whether the opposition be Alabama, Notre Dame or Timbuctoo.

Stanford looked unbeatable on those two appearances and Stanford has not gone back appreciably since.

WILL CARDS REPEAT?

The baseball supremacy attained by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1926 after so many years of struggle will be put to its hardest test next season. It takes an optimistic fan to believe implicitly that the Cards will be able to repeat in 1927 without the services of Rogers Hornsby.

STITCHLESS BALLS ADOPTED

The adoption of stitchless balls as standard is a suggestion taken under consideration by the British Lawn Tennis Association. The advantage of a stitchless ball is that it is perfectly round instead of having a slightly raised seam, and therefore tends towards greater accuracy in play.

COEN IS TENNIS STAR

Wilbur F. Coen, jr., whom William T. Tilden is taking with him on his European tour, is described by Tilden as the greatest junior tennis player in the world. Young Coen, who is now 14, began the game under the tuition of his father at the age of eight.

LAUER TAILORS DEFEAT BAPTISTS

Prospect Team Noses Out Stars from Richwood

Lauer Tailors of Prospect, nosed out Richwood Baptists 33 to 31, in a hard-fought battle at Prospect, Tuesday night.

The game at first looked like a runaway for the Tailors but the Richwood outfit came back strong in the final half and gave spectators the thrill of their lives. Conwell cinched the game for Prospect in the final minute when he dropped the sphere through the bucket for two points. The half ended 19 to 7 in favor of the Tailors.

The new hall for indoor sports at the University of Pennsylvania has been named the "Palestra", from the ancient Greek term signifying an arena for boxing, wrestling and other indoor athletic contests.

MAY FINE HOCKEY PLAYERS

The action of the American Hockey Association in giving the referee power to fine a player up to $50 for roughness is regarded by most devotees of the sport as a step in the right direction.

FUGAZY WRONG; TUNNEY TO WAIT FOR CHALLENGER

Will Sign When He Gets Ready, Says Walsh

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Dec. 30 — Gene Tunney will sign to defend his heavyweight title only when the final and ultimate challenger is developed and only with the promoter who can deliver the individual in question at a maximum of advantage to all, including himself.

The champion made this announcement to the writer today by way of dispelling Humbert J. Fugazy's impression that he intended to sign himself away with Fugazy without observing the formality of hearing the views of Mr. T. Rickard on the matter.

No one, unless it was Fugazy, seriously credited the idea that a heavyweight champion would sign a contract six months before his fight could take place and with the promoter who whispered sweet nothings from the corner of his agile mouth.

Mr. Tunney, therefore, merely is confirming the general belief that he is not addicted to mild insanity.

Rickard Not Barred

"Of course Rickard is not barred," Tunney stated. "When Tex feels that the time has come to say his say, I'll be ready to listen. It would be absurd to do otherwise. For the same reason, I am listening to Fugazy now.

"He has made me a proposition. I have informed him that it appealed to me. But that, I hope, doesn't constitute acceptance of terms.

"Why we haven't even determined the identity of the challenger and can't at this early date."

Will Meet Anybody

Speaking of challengers, and Mr. Tunney permits himself to dally with the fancy from time to time, he professed an abiding desire to meet only the best when the time came. He made no choice among Jack Sharkey, Jack Delaney, Jimmy Maloney and the field in general and intimated that there was none at this immature date.

And from Tunney's general appearance, it might be inferred that he will be ready for the big moment. His apparently is not a life of ease and repose, for he informed the writer that he boxed four rounds daily, carefully watched his diet and either went short runs on the road or otherwise indulged in some form of exercise calculated to preserve his stamina. He professed ignorance as to his exact weight, but declared that it wasn't a pound over 195, if that. I could well believe him. In fact, he appeared offhand to be almost as fit as the day he left Stroudsburg for the scene of the Dempsey fight.

Uncle Sam Viewed as Warnin Powers in Bill for Cruisers

Indications Are Other Countries Have Turned Down Second Parley

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—When the navy asked for three new 10,000-ton cruisers, early in December, President Coolidge said "no."

When a bill was introduced in congress, later in December, authorizing ten new 10,000-ton cruisers, the president said "yes."

It looks like a pretty sudden radical change in the presidential mind. Why? The answer can only be guessed, but that it's the right guess is fairly safe to assume. For whatever it may be worth, here it is.

• • •

AT the time President Harding called the powers together to discuss international limitation of naval the United States was building ship at a rate to give her, in a short time, the strongest fighting fleet in the world.

The other countries didn't like to be outclassed, but they could not afford to compete with so rich a nation as this.

So when Uncle Sam proposed to limit the number of new big battle ships and even to make scrap metal out of several that he already had on hand, providing the others limited their programs, too, they were tickled to death.

• • •

BATTLESHIPS limitation was agreed on. So were various other limitations. Some of them were rather disadvantageous to the United States but that was the American negotiators' own fault. They shouldn't have allowed themselves to be outbargained.

So far as the strict letter of the treaty is concerned, everybody appears to have played fair.

The joker in the whole thing was that no limit was placed on the construction of the smaller types of fighting craft, up to cruisers of 10,000 tons.

NOW a 10,000-ton cruiser, while small potatoes in comparison with a battleship, is a mighty formidable vessel just the same.

And straightway, before the ink on the naval limitation treaty was fairly dry, some of Uncle Sam's neighbors began building 10,000 ton cruisers as fast as they could.

A 10,000 ton cruiser race appeared to have been substituted for the previous race for supremacy in battleships. Uncle Sam, who thought he had ended that kind of racing, didn't want to see it start again.

• • •

ACCORDINGLY President Coolidge made overtures for another limitation conference, hoping to cut out 10,000 ton cruiser racing, too.

In the meantime congress authorized eight new 10,000-tonners for the United States. Five of them are under construction. No money was provided to build the others. They simply were authorized. They were the ones the navy was clamoring for early in December, when President Coolidge said "no."

Presumably he still thought there was a chance for another conference then.

IT looks now as if the oth had turned the second proposition down. Maybe they can stand a 10,000 whereas a battleship race for them.

And maybe Uncle Sam show them that even a 10,0 test can be made expensive, tends himself.

It's thus that Washington the administration's new cruiser building program—ing to the world that contin to come into Uncle Samuel's 10,000-ton conference will co

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

The Christmas to New Year's vacation is the shortest vacation but the happiest, as I told Jubilee this morning when we woke up, and he put his head on one side and grinned at me like a dog grins. As if he knew all about what a fella was talking about when he don't know a thing. On the Christmas to New Years vacation a fella has just got past one turkey and knows there is another one coming, and he has got all of his Christmas presents to play with and he is thinking of to blowing up something to celebrate the New Year.

What we are thinking of blowing up is an empty whisky barrel. Frenchy has got one that his father has had for years and it has been bunged up tight ever since it was empty, and Frenchy says it will blow up if a match is held at the bunghole and we don't believe him. I told him I would set on it while it blew up, because I don't believe it will, and he said I had better kiss Youniss goodbye if I did and get ready to say, "So this is heaven." I looked at Youniss and she had turned red, and I was going to paist him one when Feeble said maybe I would say, "Ain't this hell?" and I was never so supprized in my life. It sounds offal to hear a lady swear.

Feeble said it wasn't swearing to just say the name of a place, and just then Banty pushed his slay against her heels and both of her feet went out and she sot down on his slay like a spile driver, and it had been broke and mended so many times it was not so very strong and when she landed on it it went flat and there was not anything left of it but kindling wood and Feeble sot there and looked crosseyed, but Banty's face looked the funniest we ever saw it look, and we all hollered and skun out for the pond.

We would not let Banty use our slays, and when he went home for his skates, we all skun out and hid under the stink factory so he could not find us, and we were all setting there in the dark watching the door and keeping still, and if he poked his nose in the door we were all going to holler and scare him to death, and all at once Youniss hollered and scairt us all to death, and she skun out for the door, and we all follered her, and when we got outside a stink factory man chaseted us almost to the pond. She said she felt something in her lap and when she looked down it was a big rat. Girls are funny. They are like elephants.

Me and Jubilee went to bed early. A fella must be crazy to think a empty barrel will blow up. But maybe it will. If it don't we are all blowed up.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Are you going to do anything special today, my dear?" asked Mrs. Longears of her rabbit gentleman husband one morning as he was about to hop away from the hollow stump bungalow.

"Nothing special," he answered. "I am going to look for an adventure, but I shall be pleased to have you come along and perhaps we may find two adventures—one for each of us."

"Oh, no! I didn't mean that!" said Mrs. Longears with a laugh. "But I wish you would stop at the bakery on your way home and bring some white cakes."

"White cakes?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"For New Years," went on his wife. "That's Saturday, you know. On New Year's Day we shall have many callers who will wish us happiness for the year that is just beginning. I want to give them some little treat, and I think white cakes would be nice."

"So do I," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll bring some."

Whistling a jolly tune, and wondering what sort of adventure he would have, the bunny gentleman hopped over the fields and through the woods, looking for adventures.

Now if he had only known it an adventure, just then, was getting ready to come to him. It was an adventure in the shape of the sly Weasel, who, though not a very large animal, can often catch a rabbit much bigger than himself.

"There goes Uncle Wiggily," said the Weasel in a whisper, as, from a little hill, he saw the bunny gentleman hopping along. "I'll get him!" said the Weasel.

Well might the Weasel say that, for he noticed that Uncle Wiggily was turning into a path that would bring the rabbit right past the place where the sly chap was hiding.

"When he gets here I'll jump out, grab him by the throat and then I'll have him," said the Weasel, whose names was Pop Goes. You have often heard him sung about, I dare say, like this:

"The Monkey chased the Cobbler's wife, all around the steeple. That's the way the money goes—Pop Goes the Weasel!"

Of course steeple and Weasel don't make a good rhyme, but I didn't make up the song so you can't blame me. No, I don't know why the Monkey chased the Cobbler's wife, either.

Well, anyhow, Uncle Wiggily was coming along the path that would bring him right past where Pop Goes the Weasel was hiding, when, all of a sudden, the bunny thought of what his wife had asked him to get.

"White cakes!" he exclaimed. "Here's the bakery. I'll get them."

But when he asked the bakery cat about white cakes, the bakery cat said:

"Red cakes I can give you, or blue cakes, but I am all out of white cakes. Better try the red, they're just as good."

"I will," said Uncle Wiggily, so he bought a bag of bright red cakes, which the baker cat put in the rabbit gentleman's pocket.

"If your paws get cold," mewed the bakery cat with a smile, "just put your paws in the pocket where the red cakes are and you'll get warm."

"How come?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"The cakes are red, like fire," said the bakery cat.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, little thinking how soon those red cakes were to do him a favor. Along the bunny hopped until, all of a sudden, he came to the place where the Weasel was hiding. Out jumped Pop Goes, stretching his long, thin neck and aiming for Uncle Wiggily's throat.

"What do you want?" gasped the rabbit gentleman.

"You'll soon find out," snarled the Weasel.

Just then he was so close to Mr. Longears, the bad chap was, that he could look into the pocket that held the red cakes. Bright and glowing red they were, like the embers of the fireplace. The Weasel looked at them, stopped short and cried:

"A trick! A trick! You have a lot of red hot coals in your pocket! A trick! You are going to try to burn me! But you shan't! I'm going to run away!"

"I'm all out of white cakes."

"Run away as fast as you like!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I won't stop you!" And the bad chap ran, muttering to himself.

"It's mighty lucky I saw those red hot coals in Uncle Wiggily's coat pocket before I jumped on him! I might have burned myself severely! I wonder how he knew I was coming and had the coals ready for me? I wonder?" And later, when the Fox told the Weasel he had run away from red cakes, oh, that bad chap was so angry as never was! But if the feather duster will let the huckleberry pie sleep in the rag doll's bed I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's blue cakes.

AMERICAN BUSINESS MAN TO HAVE PEACEFUL YEAR

Radical Changes Cited as Basis for Prediction of Prosperity

New York, Dec. 30—With his usual courage and enterprise, backed by a good digestion and cheerful temperament, the American business man may look forward to a new year devoid of nightmares.

The thermostate that operates to establish an even temperature in a well-regulated heating system has a parallel in the influence of numerous radical changes that have recently taken place in the conduct of business of our country.

Business risks involved in wars, pestilence and money panics have been minimized. Immigration laws have stabilized labor conditions. So-called hand-to-mouth buying, of "producing to consumption" supported by efficient transportation and prompt distribution has reduced inventory risks and the peaks of employment and unemployment in the industrial field.

The business weather man may confidently predict smooth seas for 1927.

FRONT YARD FOUR MILES IN LENGTH!

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 30—Harold Bell Wright is known to the public as a "best seller" novelist, but the cattlemen of southern Arizona know him as a brother rancher. Wright plays this role reclusively on the 20,000-acre Cross Anchor ranch, 75 miles from here, near the border. There are two mountain ranges on the ranch.

Wright's occupation remains novel writing, so the ranch will be managed by Sheriff Walter Bailey, his associate, a cattleman of the old school. For many years Wright has been in touch with the cattle interests of the southwest and has been looking forward to the time when he might enter the cattle game as an actual owner. His stories, particularly the later ones, show a marked fondness for ranch life.

The Cross Anchor ranch has the longest front yard in the country, the front gate being just four miles from the front door of the ranch house. This house is a large rambling affair of native sun-baked adobe bricks. It has a "whopping" big fireplace (Wright's own words), and all modern home comforts.

Not a Fad

Although acquainted with the fact that the Cross Anchor ranch is for the purpose of raising only beef, many fail to grasp this, believing the venture only a new sort of fad. Wright constantly receives letters proposing schemes for ranch schools, dude ranches and the like.

It is intersting to note that Wright and Bailey last autumn sold a large number of high-grade steers, that probably are finding their way into the homes of the consuming public as choice steaks and roasts.

The range is stocked with high-grade Herefords which will run with only registered bulls, an innovation in the beef industry of the ranges. By supplying a bull to each 20 cows instead of the 35 demanded by custom, the Cross Anchor calf yield will be about 90 per cent instead of 60 or 65 per cent.

Near Mexico

The southern boundary of the ranch is only four miles from the Mexican border, while the fences at the west run along the base of the Baboquiviri mountains, which form the eastern boundary of the Papago Indian reservation.

Wright often comes out here in order to write as well as attend to his other work. Under a gnarled old oak tree, he sets up his open-air workshop with a camp chair and a lapboard. For his ranch work, he has brought out his string of ponies from Tucson, where he kept them on his desert estate outside of the city.

The ranch is no toy to Wright, neither is it a mere hobby. He is raising steers for beef consumption just because he likes to, and also—because he wants to!

EX-CONGRESSMAN JOHN W. LANGLEY LEAVING PRISON

Photo of John W. Langley, formerly congressman from Kentucky, as he departed from the federal penitentiary, Atlanta, Ga., after being paroled. Langley served 11 months of a two-year sentence on a charge of violating the national prohibition laws.

URGES REVISION OF STATE PRISON LAWS

Albany, Dec. 30—New York state's prison law should be revised and greatly simplified.

This recommendation was made by George W. Alger, who, as a Moreland Act Commissioner, investigated the state prison system generally, for Governor Smith. This part of the Alger report was made public by the Governor. Another section of the Alger report made public by the Governor on Monday, recommended the abolition of the present parole system.

After the reorganization of the state government on January 1, the prison department will be known as the department of correction.

GIRL FINISHES TOUR OF COUNTRY ALONE

Boston, Dec. 30—Adventures that are supposed to befall unchaperoned girls never were the lot of Miss Priscilla A. Henshaw, charming Belmont girl, who has just completed a ten thousand mile tour of the U. S. A.

"Mind your own business," is Miss Henshaw's rule for traveling for unaccompanied girls.

The old-fashioned idea of girls being in danger while traveling is a myth, according to Miss Henshaw.

Journeying alone up and down the continent, Miss Henshaw never missed a train, never forgot her luggage and always had hotel reservations.

HURT IN ICE FALL

LABELS LIQUOR "POISON"

Chicago—"Poison" was the name given by Health Commissioner Herman Bundesen to $9,000,000 worth of the holiday liquor distributed in Chicago. The total amount spent was estimated at $10,000,000 by prohibition agents. No liquor fatalities were reported.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

A general survey today showed a slight increase in the price of vegetables and fruit. Meats and provisions remain the same.

Displays of vegetables found in the different stores are made possible only by shipments from warmer climates. This necessitates a higher price than produce bought from local growers.

Hothouse button radishes selling for 10 cents a bunch are on display today. Leaf lettuce is retailing at 25 cents a pound, and head lettuce at 36 cents a pound. Hothouse tomatoes have reached such a high price that local dealers say it does not pay to handle them. The chance of spoiling is also a factor in the high price. Cauliflowers in various sizes are selling at 30 to 60 cents a a head. Celery is retailing at 10, 20 and 25 cents a bunch, according to size.

Good grades of flour are selling from $1.00 to $1.20 for 24½ pound sacks.

The price of nuts remains about the same. The demand is not great.

Wild rabbits may be had today for 55 and 75 cents apiece. Another shipment is expected the last of the week. Spare ribs are being featured on display today. The price is 25 cents a pound. Pork in chunk is selling at 17 cents a pound.

CONFUSED, UNSETTLED MARKET SESSION TODAY

Industrial Stocks Irregular and Railroad Issues Inactive; Heavy Calling of Loans

Railroad stocks irregular; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds irregular; foreign bonds firm; call money 5 1-2; grain steady; copper firm; oil reactionary; cotton steady; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, Dec. 30—Industrial stocks were irregular and railroad stocks inactive in a confused and unsettled session of the stock market today.

While the bullish forces were not disposed to sell stocks on recessions, the combination of tax selling the heavy calling of loans by the banks with the resultant six per cent call loan rate, and the renewal of professional short selling all over the board, had the natural effect of depressing values, or at least of checking the advance.

Wall Street reported the beginning of a buying movement in the high grade dividend stocks, which is expected to be the largest and most impressive in investment history. This is due to the enormous volume of interest and dividend money available to reinvestment after the first week in January, the effects of which have thus far been seen principally in the bond market. The last two weeks or so have witnessed a gradual disappearance of the floating supply of high grade bonds at prices within hailing distance of the range of a few months ago and investors have now turned their attention to stocks.

After ruling at 5 1-2 per cent since last Monday, the call loan rate was marked up to six per cent shortly after the noon period, close on the heels of the withdrawal of about $40,000,000 from the call loan market. The move was not unexpected. Industrial and business reports were unchanged, except that the railroad earnings reports for November in some of the important transportation systems were above expectations. The Delaware & Lackawanna road declared an extra dividend of $1 a share.
